

Precinct realignment

Some voters to be shifted, some to new polling locations

WILMINGTON - As a result of the 2010 Census, Wilmington will be undergoing some voter precinct realignment. Town Clerk Sharon George presented the Board of Selectmen with the draft version of a new Precinct map on Monday night. The new map (which may be viewed on page 16 of this newspaper) includes shifting to accommodate population growth that has occurred since the 2000 Census.

Voter precincts in towns within the Commonwealth may not contain more than 4,000 voters. With a population of 21,363, according to the 2000 Census, the town is broken down into six precincts. According to the 2010 Census, the Town of Wilmington's population is now 22,325, which does not represent enough growth to alter the total number of precincts. It does, however, necessitate realignment to maintain equality amongst the precincts.

In her presentation to the Board, George referred to the Local business supports Relay Memorial Day events

Wilmington's Relay For Life fund raiser boasts low overhead costs

WILMINGTON - Once again this summer the community will come together for the Relay For Life at Wilmington High School. On June 17th, they will celebrate and raise funds for the American Cancer Society. Planning and supporting this party event has been a combined effort of many people. Because of that, there has been success in many ways.

One success has been in the area of expenses. Last year's overhead cost for the Relay For Life of Wilmington was only 3.7 percent of its total fundraising effort. That's less than half of the Relay national average, which is nine percent.

If they were included in a recent special report by Forbes, they would receive glowing remarks as well. The Wilmington Relay For Life has a funding efficiency of 96.3 percent, as compared with the report's national average of 89 percent. Fundraising efficiency indicates the share of gifts less fundraising expenses.

The Relay Planning Committee attributes their success to the generosity of local businesses. Strong community support from both Wilmington and nearby Tewksbury keeps the event's costs minimal. Food and beverages come from various sources and are a definite asset. Each year there is a Survivors' Dinner which honors those who courageously fight back against cancer. And each year Rocco's Restaurant provides all of the food for the 70 plus survivors who attend. Frito Lay also makes snack donations each year. At midnight, there is a Pizza Party, which will be

Preparations begin Saturday

By JAYNE W. MILLER

"We come not to mourn our dead soldiers, but to praise them." - Francis A. Walker

WILMINGTON - Every year Wilmington gathers together to honor the sacrifices men and women have made in service to their country. Last year the town especially honored the work of middle school student Ryan Carroccino and WWII Army widow Clair Troy for their considerable work to raise money for new crosses and markers along with custom made covers for the Veteran's lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

For 2011, Veteran's Agent Lou Cimaglia has arranged for a tremendous complement of activities throughout the Memorial Day weekend culminating in a parade through town Monday morning. Be sure to take a moment out to show respect for those soldiers who have contributed so much to ensure our way of life.

Preparations for the weekend begin this Saturday morning with decorations being placed on the Veteran's graves at Wildwood cemetery at 8:00 a.m. By 10:30, volunteers can continue decorating in the squares and memorials throughout town.

On Sunday morning St. Dorothy's will host a Memorial Mass at 10:30 a.m. Followed by rededications of eighteen parks, squares and monuments around town beginning at 1:00 p.m. at the Police Station Monument and then the Memorial Shrine at St. Thomas' church at 1:15 p.m.

Monday Morning, of course, brings the parade. Formation of groups begins at 9:30 a.m. with all participating adults assembling in Market Basket parking lot and youth groups will meet at the Wilmington House of Pizza. By 10:00 a.m. the parade begins. At 11:00 a.m. the parade will turn toward the Veteran's Lot and Soldiers Monument where there will be a Flag

A multi-part series: Addressing the issues surrounding a new high school

Discussion of Model School is premature, says MSBA

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - In recent weeks the Crier has covered progression of the Feasibility Study for Wilmington High School, including interest in joining the model school program. Right now the Massachusetts School Building Authority says discussion about the model school program is premature, and will be so until the high school building committee has completed the feasibility study phase.

The MSBA's Model Schools Program adapts and re-uses design elements from successfully constructed schools thus simplifying the design process, reducing the amount of time projects spend in the design phase, and lowering design fees. Working with plans from a previously designed Model School allows projects to begin construction faster and reduces construction costs for the project. Using a model school, according to the MSBA, can save a year of design work.

The Sciarappa farm site in North Wilmington remains an area of interest for at least one resident - former candidate for selectman, Mark Nelson. Nelson has gone public with a petition drive to ultimately acquire the property for use as a new high school. While the farm is not for sale, despite efforts by the town to inquire into the availability of the site, the High School Building Committee already rejected the site as a potential area for any new high school.

The building committee announced at its last public forum that a new building would remain in the present location, though at a different space on the existing site.

Nelson, along with other residents, raised concerns at public forums that the current site brings use limitations due to a previous oil spill on the property in the 1980s. Building on a new site would alleviate that environ-

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

The Tavern, from Harnden to Hathaway

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - For nearly 40 years, the Harnden Tavern has been the property of the Town of Wilmington. The town took the property by eminent domain in 1973, as a historical property. Prior to that, for about 30 years, it was the home of Dr. Rounds, a dentist with a practice in Malden. But 100 years ago, it was known as the Maria Hathaway place, or Ridge Hill

Farm.

The Harnden Tavern name, of course, predates the Hathaway name by 100 years. Built about 1770 by Abel or Ebenezer Jones, it was soon sold to Joshua Harnden, and it was he who kept a tavern there. He died in 1807, and his widow in 1816. Dr. Silas Brown bought the tavern in 1818 with 300 acres, and it remained in his family until 1943.

Dr. Brown had a large family, four daughters and five sons. The oldest, John Huse Brown in 1831 married Charlotte Stimson and settled in the Mill House at Nod Mill, a half-mile east of the Harnden Tavern, where they raised eight children. He was badly injured in 1852 when the house was burned. His family moved to Philadelphia, while John Brown remained in Wilmington, under his father's care. One of John's daughters, Maria, married Francis Ebenezer Hathaway.

Their granddaughter, the late Alice Dillaway, explained the marriage in Tales of the Harnden Tavern, which is the source for some of this story.

Hathaway came from Enfield, a town in central Massachusetts later taken for the Quabbin Reservoir. He went to work for a Boston shoe merchant, Hiram Colburn, who had married Anna Brown, daughter of Dr. Brown. Anna's brother, Dr. Jonathan Brown married Olive Carter of Wilmington, daughter of Eldad Carter, who lived on Shawshen Avenue. Through Colburn, Francis Hathaway met Olive's sister, Lydia, whom he married.

It was also through Colburn that the Browns became Swedeborgians, explained in

by Joyce Brisbois

BUSINESS MILEAGE RATES FOR THIS YEAR

In response to rising gasoline prices, the Internal Revenue Service has raised some of the standard mileage rates for 2011. If prices continue to rise, they may raise the rates again.

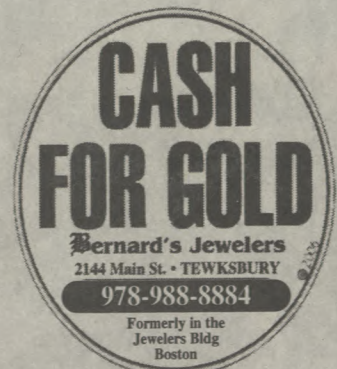

The standard mileage rate for business driving is 51 cents a mile. This applies to cars, vans and pick-up or panel trucks, owned or leased, and, for the first time, to vehicles for hire, such as taxicabs. Parking fees and tolls are deductible in addition.

Generally, this allowance is available for businesses with four or fewer vehicles, though this may change. If a vehicle was placed in service this year, the standard rate can be used in lieu of deducting actual expenses and depreciation, but if any method other than the standard rate was used for older vehicles, see a professional to determine what or how to deduct.

If employees are reimbursed for business use of their own vehicles under an "accountable" plan, they will not be taxed on payments.

Small business owners depend on our tax know-how. See the professionals at

WCTV Announces 2011 Summer Youth Programs

Letters to the editor

Thumbs up for WOW!

Dear Editor,
Two thumbs up for the WOW (Women of Wilmington) for the fantastic job with organizing the 5k run/ walk for the Wilmington+ Kim Forte. I am eternally grateful for the amazing tribute to my amazing wife.
And thumbs up to the town of Wilmington. Thank you for all the love and support during this tragic time. You all came out for an amazing tribute to my wife Kim at the WOW Walk/ run, last Sunday. What a great day for Kim and I.

Lou Forte
Wilmington

What a trip!

Dear Editor,
Thanks to Debbie Cipriani, Director of the Recreation Department.
Helen and I just returned from the 10-day Greek Island Cruise that Debbie and her staff at the Wilmington Recreation Department organized. The cruise was superb and we had a really great trip visiting beautiful islands. It was a huge bonus to have had Debbie be part of the vacationing group while, still acting as the Recreation Department Director, she was continually keeping an eye on the flow of events assuring all went smoothly.

Thanks,
Mike & Helen Corrigan
Wilmington

Food drive success

Dear Editor,
On Behalf of the Tewksbury Community Food Pantry Board of Directors, we would like to extend our sincere gratitude & thanks to the Tewksbury Post Office, the Postal Carriers, volunteers, and the many people who donated their time (and food) to make our food drive such a success. This year we collected over 16,000 pounds of food, which will help the 250 Tewksbury families that currently use the services of the Pantry.

It is always a heart-warming event to help out at the food drives (whether through donations or volunteer hours) and see how many people are willing to share in this effort. We are all very fortunate to have such a giving community.

We are a 100% volunteer organization that is housed behind the DPW on 999 Whipple Road. If you'd like more information about the Pantry, we have a website - www.tewksburypantry.org and recently created a Facebook page - Tewksbury Community Pantry.

Thanks again for your generosity

Sincerely,
The Tewksbury Pantry
Board of Directors

2011 NALC Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive

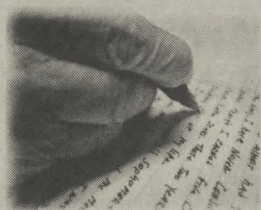

Dear Editor:
I want to thank the Wilmington residents, businesses, and postal employees who pitched-in to make the May 14, 2011, National Association of Letter Carriers Stamp-Out Hunger Food Drive an overwhelming success. It is very gratifying to see the community and the Wilmington Postal Team work together to re-stock the local food pantry shelves and provide assistance to some of our neighbors that may need a helping hand.

The results of the Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive certainly speak volumes about the community's generosity and the caring attitude of our employees who worked hard to collect those food donations. As Officer In Charge of the Wilmington post Office, I see the food drive as a reflection of the tradition and spirit of community service that postal employees demonstrate every day.

Congratulations to the community and the Wilmington Postal Team for their efforts on May 14, to help Stamp-Out Hunger.

Sincerely,
David M. Branga
Officer In Charge

Letter to the editor

WOW is just getting started!

Dear Editor,
I wanted to extend thanks to the many people and organizations without whom this event would not have been possible. First, to the WOW members who were my sub-committee in planning this event, especially to Tricia Lambert and Caitie Weinstein for corporate sponsorship, Jen Tassone for race donations, Pam Almeida for volunteers, Traci Alberti and Noreen Curdo for set-up and a very special thanks to Becky McGrath, the graphic designer and publicity chair who donated many hours to create the incredible race programs, t-shirts and our phenomenal website.

WOW would also like to thank the Wilmington Police Department for donating their time the morning of this event; it was greatly appreciated. To all of our volunteers who helped assemble and hand out packets, set up and breakdown the common and every single detail in between. This truly was a team effort, and it could not have been successful without you. To our corporate and individual sponsors, we know this is just the beginning of a long lasting partnership. Lastly, to all the participants; we had over 600 people register, we thank each and everyone of you for braving a daunting forecast and joining us for a special morning.

Last Sunday, we gathered to show our support for our community as well as to honor a very special person who meant so much to our town. Many of us knew Kim through our fitness center or seeing her around town with her beautiful smile. We would like to thank Lou, Tim and the extended family of Kim Forte for letting us honor her in a way that truly captured her spirit.

WOW is a new group in town whose mission is to help support individuals and families. In our short time of existence, we have grown to over 200 members and we are continually adding projects and collaborations to our calendars, which currently include meal plans for families in need and a clothing pantry, which we were pleased to open in April at Villanova Hall. For more information on our group, please visit www.womenofwilmington.org

From the race proceeds, we are happy to announce the launch of some new initiatives. These include collaborations with the school system to enhance and create more community service opportunities as well as our sponsor-a-child program. This program will allow Wilmington children to attend camps, activities and field trips their families would not otherwise be able to afford. With this program, we are pleased to announce the WOW Honor Roll. This Honor Roll will be a list on our website that will show the names of individuals and organizations who we are honoring or who are supporting our program. The families of our honor roll will receive annual updates as to how many children were sponsored in the name of their loved one. We are pleased to announce that our founding members of our honor roll are: Kim Forte, Kelli Murray and Paul Lydon. We also would like to recognize the Rotary Club as one of our donors for this program and to announce that as part of this program, WOW will be subsidizing the Children's Museum Passes at the Wilmington Library.

Finally, due to the overwhelming response of the event, we are pleased to inform you of two scholarships that WOW will be presenting at this year's scholarship night at the Wilmington High School. The first is the Kim Forte Memorial Scholarship, which will be presented to a graduating Wilmington High School Senior who will be attending Middlesex Community College. The second scholarship is the Women of Wilmington Scholarship, which will go to a graduating senior who has demonstrated a commitment to community service.

We have only just begun and we will continue to live up to our motto: Strengthening our community, one good deed at a time.

Thank you,
Michelle Bryan

Representative James R. Miceli hosted the students from the Third Grade Classes of the Shawsheen Elementary School during the third week of April. The children, the teachers and their chaperones enjoyed their visit.

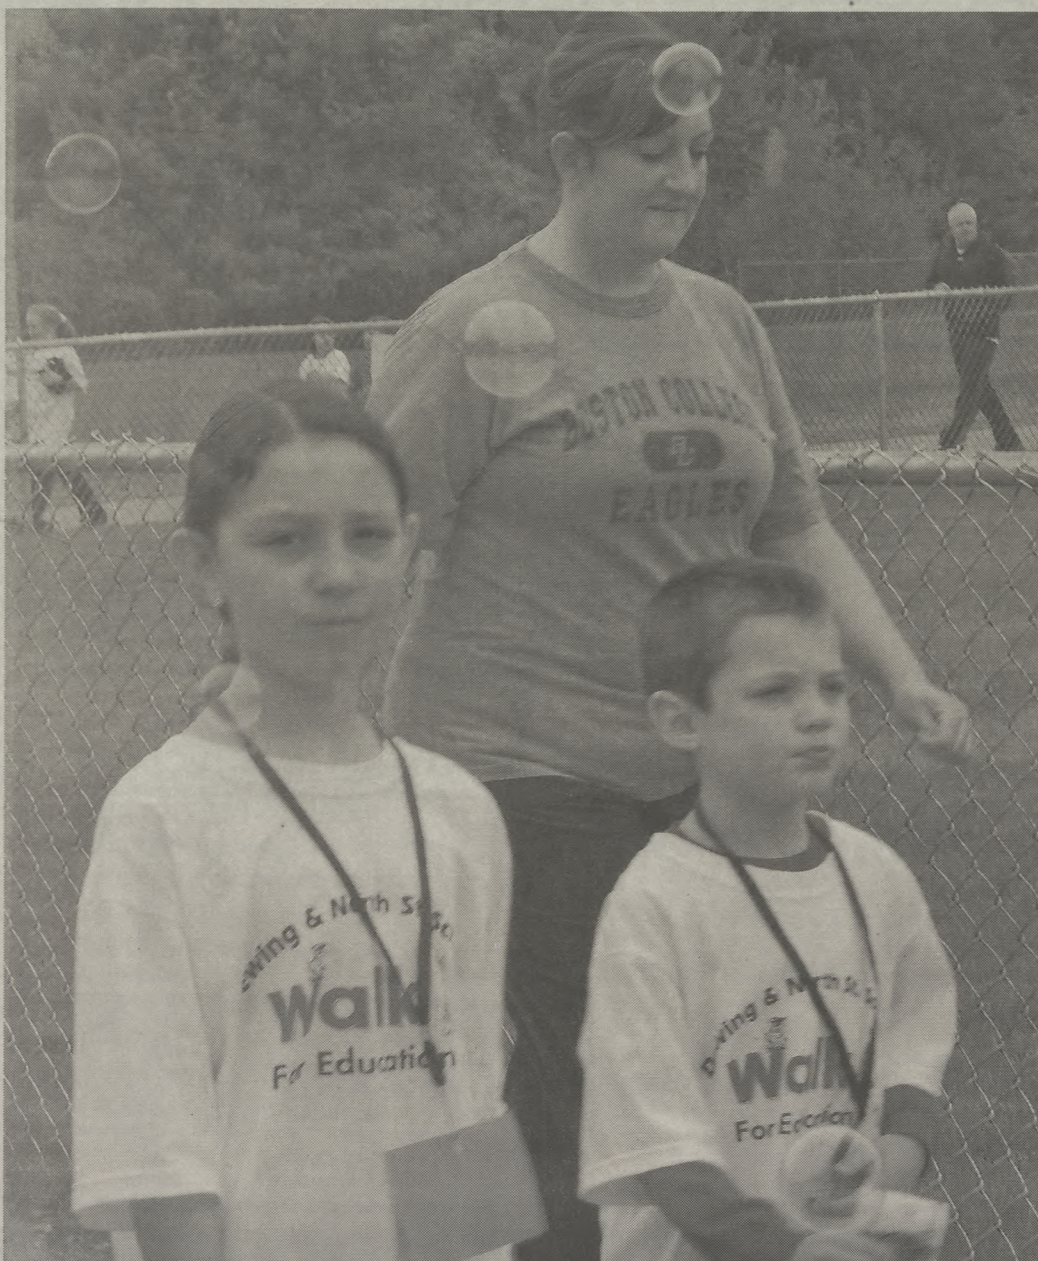

"It is always a great pleasure to watch the children's faces as they walk through one of the most historic buildings in the country," said Rep. Miceli. Rep. Miceli spent time with the students and engaged them in a question and answer period.

Leah Del Rossi graduates from Boston University

BOSTON - Leah Del Rossi graduated magna cum laude, with a Bachelor of Science degree from Boston University Class of 2011. She was a student in the College of Communication. Leah is a graduate of the Wilmington High School Class of 2007.

St. John's Prep holds 101st commencement exercises

DANVERS - St. John's Preparatory School held its 101st Commencement exercises on Sunday, May 22 at 11 a.m. Headmaster Albert J. Shannon, Ph.D. awarded diplomas to 332 seniors during an outdoor ceremony held on the school's campus. A Xavierian Brothers sponsored secondary school for young men, St. John's was founded in 1907.

Dr. Shannon praised the graduates for all they had achieved during their years at St. John's, and he urged them to put their talents to work for others. "For four years, we have challenged you to become peacemakers, on campus and in the wider community. Now, we call on you to become someone's miracle, to use your gifts and your Xavierian-inspired experiences to make your mark and bring about change in our world."

With scores of proud families, friends and faculty gathered for the ceremony, members of the graduating class were recognized with awards for academic, extracurricular and athletic achievement during Commencement. Members of the St. John's Prep Class of 1961 celebrated their 50th reunion during Commencement weekend and they were also honored during the ceremony.

Founded in 1907, St. John's is a Xavierian Brothers sponsored secondary school for young men. With a century-long tradition of excellence in academics, arts and athletics, St. John's is recognized for a rigorous college preparatory curriculum that emphasizes academic achievement, spiritual development, leadership and commitment to Christian service. Located on a 175-acre campus in Danvers, Massachusetts, St. John's draws students from more than 80 communities.

On the road with your Boston Red Sox

WILMINGTON - Join us for this 3-day/2-night trip to Pittsburgh from Friday - Sunday, June 24 - 26, to see the Red Sox and Pirates in a rare interleague meeting between the two teams that played in the very first World Series in 1903!

Depart for Pittsburgh early Friday morning. Hotel accommodations are at the four-star Omni William Penn Hotel in downtown Pittsburgh, conveniently located just blocks from the stadium and adjacent to world class shopping, art galleries and nightlife.

The highlight of the trip is a reserved infield box seat on Friday evening at acclaimed PNC Park. An optional bleacher seat (general admission) ticket is available for Saturday's game for only $10. For the baseball enthusiast, PNC Park will offer public walk-up tours Saturday morning, June 25, at a cost of $7 for adults or $5 for seniors/students.

Cost is $399 per person, double occupancy, with other room categories and prices available. Price includes motorcoach transportation, hotel accommodations, reserved ticket to one Sox/Pirates game, trip escort, baggage handling and all taxes and gratuities (except escort and driver). Cancellation insurance (for medical cancellations only) can be purchased at the time of registration for $25.00 per person.

What a great way to remember this baseball season - following our own Red Sox on the road as they try to capture another World Championship.

To register for this or other Recreation Department programs stop by Town Hall, Room 8. For more information, call (978) 658 - 4270.

Babson College Fall 2010 Dean's List

Career in the Air Force; electrician

WILMINGTON - Alvan W. Marshall, age 82, of Wilmington, died Thursday, May 19, 2011, at the E. N. Rogers Memorial Hospital in Bedford following a lengthy illness.

Alvan was born on May 2, 1929, in Gloucester, MA. He was the dear son of the late Alfred and Amy (Spurling) Marshall, he grew up in Gloucester and was a graduate of Gloucester High School. Upon his completion of high school, Alvan enlisted in the United States Air Force at the age of 18 and that's where an impressive career began. Alvan made the most of his years in the Air Force serving during Korea and Vietnam. Alvan educated himself, taking advantage of every course he could handle. Alvan was trained in Air Proving Management, Ground Safety, Advanced Vocational Training, Air Training Command, Airplane Electrical Mechanic Repair Man, ACFT-MSL Electrical Mechanic, just to name a few. He also attended Officer Candidate School and was awarded the Outstanding Non-Commissioned Officer of the 405th Field Maintenance Squadron in 1960.

Some of Alvan's missions included being part of the Strategic Air Command during the Cuban Missile Crisis and he was sent overseas as an Advisor for the Air Force during the Vietnam War. He worked on the B-52 Bombers and was part of Operation Ranch Hand which dealt with Agent Orange. He was instrumental in the Aero Space Systems, dealing with the heavy construction.

Alvan was well regarded and respected for his service to the country, he earned the rank of Senior Master Sergeant in September of 1960 and he was awarded many commendations over the years. Alvan retired after 22 years of honorable service in 1969.

During the Korean War, Alvan was stationed in Germany and that's where he met his future bride Berta Kampfl, Alvan and Berta married on July 12, 1953, celebrating nearly 58 years of marriage and raising two children.

After Alvan retired the family moved to Wilmington in 1970 and Alvan went to work as an electrician. Alvan was a hard worker, there wasn't anything he couldn't do or fix. He knew about electronics as well as mechanics, a "Jack of all Trades".

Alvan worked at David W. Marshall Electrical Service along side his son David for over twenty years, until he was well into his late 70's, he just loved to be busy whether it was at work or putting around the house. Alvan was always doing something.

Alvan was also very devoted to his family, he loved them with all his heart, and he will be greatly missed by them.

Alvan was the beloved husband of Berta (Kampfl) Marshall, devoted father of Linda Whelton of Latham, NY, and David Marshall & his wife Lynne of Wilmington, loving "Grampy" of Amy Whelton & her husband Peter Lasaga of Hoboken, NJ, Hannah Marshall and Shawn Marshall both of Wilmington, "Two Grampy" to Charlotte and Ethan Lasaga, dear son of the late Alfred W. & Amy (Spurling) Marshall, brother of Philip Marshall & his wife Madeline of East Kingston, NH.

Family and friends gathered at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, for Visiting Hours on Saturday, May 21st from 9:00 - 11:00 a.m. Immediately followed by a Graveside Service with Military Honors in Wildwood Cemetery. Memorial donations in Alvan's name may be made to Local Heroes, Inc., P. O. Box 536, Wilmington, MA 01887.

AG Coakley and DEP settlement with Wheelabrator

Wilmington receives over $50,000; Tewksbury receives over $67,000

BOSTON - The Town of Wilmington will receive a payment of $56,951; and the Town of Tewksbury will receive a payment of $67,346 as a result of a settlement resolving environmental violations allegedly committed by the operator of municipal waste incinerators, Attorney General Martha Coakley announced.

Wheelabrator Saugus and Wheelabrator North Andover allegedly committed multiple violations of the Hazardous Waste Management Act by failing to properly treat and dispose of ash, and the Clean Air Act by failing to contain fugitive ash. As part of a $7.5 million settlement reached on May 2 with AG Coakley's Office and the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (MassDEP), $3.5 million from a "Municipal Relief Fund" is being distributed by the AG's office to towns that paid Wheelabrator for trash incineration services in 2009. The Commonwealth alleged that the environmental violations gave rise to liability to the municipalities that contracted with Wheelabrator for trash disposal. Wilmington is receiving $56,951 based on the alleged violations committed by Wheelabrator.

"These recoveries are rightfully owed to communities that contracted with Wheelabrator," AG Coakley said. "Especially during these times when municipalities are dealing with difficult budget cuts, these refunds should help support essential services."

"This very creative settlement allows the Commonwealth to provide monies from the Municipal Relief Fund to communities that trusted Wheelabrator to manage municipal trash properly in accordance with our environmental regulations," said MassDEP Commissioner Kenneth L. Kimmell. "Wheelabrator must be held accountable to its contract communities and get its operations in Massachusetts back on track. One hundred percent compliance with our environmental regulations is the only acceptable outcome for Wheelabrator."

Under the terms of the comprehensive settlement announced on May 2, Wheelabrator agreed to pay a total of $7.5 million, directed as follows:

- $4.5 million to create a Municipal Relief Fund, $3.5 million of which the AG's Office will distribute to municipalities, after paying a statutory share to the whistleblowers who brought the matter to the government's attention;

- Two payments totaling $2 million for civil penalties arising from multiple environmental violations;

- $500,000 donation to the Massachusetts Natural Resource Damages Trust; and

- $500,000 for a supplemental environmental project or projects, to be approved by MassDEP and the AGO, designed to improve the environment in the vicinity of Wheelabrator facilities.

The Municipal Relief Fund arose out of the Attorney General's contention that Wheelabrator's environmental violations at the two facilities created liability to the municipalities who paid Wheelabrator for services. The funds are not restricted - each municipality will determine how to use the money.

In addition to the monetary component of the May 2 settlement, Wheelabrator must immediately hire an independent environmental auditor to monitor the company's compliance with environmental regulations. The company will be subject to unannounced inspections by the auditor for the next three years.

This case is the result of a comprehensive investigation that was conducted by the Massachusetts Environmental Strike Force in response to credible information provided to the Attorney General's office by whistleblowers.

The Massachusetts Environmental Strike Force is an interagency unit, which is overseen by AG Coakley, MassDEP Commissioner Kimmell and Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Richard Sullivan. The Strike Force is comprised of prosecutors from the Attorney General's Office, Environmental Police and State Police Officers assigned to the Attorney General's Office, and attorneys, investigators and engineers from the MassDEP. The Strike Force investigates and prosecutes cases involving harm or risk to the state's water, air or land, and that pose a significant threat to human health.

Senator Finegold to push for more money for towns

BOSTON - Finegold to file a budget amendment to increase special education circuit breaker funding

On Friday, Senator Barry Finegold (D-Andover) will file an amendment to the Senate Ways and Means budget to increase the level of reimbursement for the Special Education circuit breaker funding for cities and towns in the Commonwealth. Senator Finegold's amendment will request a raise from roughly 50 percent reimbursement to about 75 percent, as funded in the House budget.

"Funding for special education is one of my top priorities," Senator Finegold said. "We need to supply our cities and towns with the tools to educate our children, and they absolutely cannot do that without adequate funding. With this increase in reimbursement, school budgets will have more breathing room and our vital special education programs will be better funded."

Finegold's amendment has garnered support from fellow senators and constituents. "I'm forming a strong coalition to work towards increasing the level of reimbursement to a rate cities and towns can work with."

"Due to economic circumstances funding for the circuit breaker has been reduced significantly," said Krissy Polimeno, chairwoman of the Tewksbury School Committee. "School Districts consistently struggle with budget reductions and unfunded mandates. I agree and support Senator Finegold's amendment to increase the level of reimbursement for the circuit breaker."

Wilmington Memorial Library, along with 34 other libraries from the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium (MVLC), will be launching a new catalog and circulation system over Memorial Day weekend. The new catalog is part of a move to the Evergreen open source library system. The current catalog will shut down at the end of the day on Friday, May 27. You can check out materials on Saturday May 28, but you will not be able to search the catalog or place holds on materials. Access to some online databases will also be disrupted and museum pass reservation will be unavailable. Any holds previously placed on materials should carry over to the new system. Users will find that their personally-created lists in the bookbags will be available in the "My Accounts" area of the new catalog. Library users will enjoy some new features with the Evergreen system, such as the ability to share their bookbags with others, more flexibility in creating user passwords, and the ability to update their street and e-mail addresses. The new system is scheduled to go live on Tuesday, May 31, 2011.

Girl Scouts Present Children's Science Programs

Wilmington Girl Scouts of Troop 61026, Rachel Cummings and Julia Warren, recently presented three science programs for children at the library, as community service for their Silver Awards. Through careful planning, the collection of materials, fund-raising, and many trial runs, their projects were made ready for the children to enjoy. The hands-on activities included explorations into the properties of eggs in motion with the famous and very popular egg drop; observations of unusual mixtures such as Gooblek, or slime, and bubbles; and the planting of bean seeds and a sunflower seed craft. The programs were enjoyed by all, at times causing great excitement, and science experiment books were displayed for taking home. Thank you, Rachel and Julia, for all your hard work and enthusiasm.

Maintaining an Investment Portfolio in Retirement

Monday, June 13, 7 pm
Bob Ryan, JD, CFP, from Resolute Financial in Wakefield will talk about investment strategies to make your nest egg last. With the demise of pension plans, many retirees are becoming increasingly dependent upon the success of their investment portfolio - including 401ks, IRAs and savings - to fund their golden years. Retirees and pre-retirees are asking the following questions: How do you structure an investment portfolio to last throughout retirement? How much can you expect to withdraw annually from a portfolio without depleting your assets during your lifetime? The presentation will discuss various market histories - stocks, bonds, Treasury Bills/cash and inflation and studies covering spending plans in retirement.

Diversity Studio, Inc. announces company name change to DSI Marketing Communications

CHELMSFORD - Capping off a period of record growth, Diversity Studio, Inc. announced today that it has formally changed its name to DSI Marketing Communications (DSI).

According to company president and CEO Laurie Cote, the new name better reflects and strengthens the company's position as a full-service, strategic marketing agency. "Moving forward, we'll be better able to leverage our product and service offerings, particularly our Brand Advantage Works™ and our expanding new media areas of social marketing, web design and development."

Diversity Studio, Inc. acquired Blue Jay Marketing this past December and there has been recent key executive additions to support sales, account management and new media. Positioned now as DSI Marketing Communications they are capable of delivering a suite of services to clients on a local, regional and national basis.

As part of the company's rebranding, a new corporate logo has been launched and an expanded interactive website is in development. The new DSI logo refreshes the corporate identity but maintains the previous tag line — conceive. design. deliver. DSI Marketing Communications' new web address has been changed to

from: www.diversitystudio.com. The company is further promoting the new brand launch with an email marketing campaign, social media strategy utilizing LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter and a follow-up direct mail campaign to new and existing clients.

Mike Anastasia, Vice President of Operations and Account Management added, "This is an exciting time to work with clients to help them grow their business with so many marketing tools available to get results. In today's competitive marketplace and this recent economy, marketing dollars need to go farther than ever before and we're helping our clients do that."

Little Sprouts is proud to open its doors to Wilmington

WILMINGTON - Little Sprouts, an early education organization with over 28 years' experience, is proud to announce the opening of their thirteenth school in Wilmington. The Wilmington School will open their doors on June 6, 2011 and will be hosting an Open House on May 28, 2011 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. The school will be educating 72 students of all age groups, infants, toddlers, and preschoolers. This new school is located on 310 Lowell Street, conveniently located on Route 129 and right off of Interstate 93.

"Little Sprouts is delighted for the expansion and the opportunity to continue to grow their legacy within the Commonwealth," noted Susan Leger Ferraro, President and Founder of Little Sprouts. "We are excited to have the opportunity to offer our award winning early education to the Wilmington community."

Little Sprouts has provided award-winning early education and child care for over 28 years in the Greater Merrimack Valley and Boston. The organization has earned national recognition for its curriculum and results, most notably as a three-time recipient of the U.S. Department of Education's "Preschool Center of Educational Excellence" award. Little Sprouts preschoolers score in the top 4% in national independent early literacy assessments as compared to other schools.

This school is in a beautifully remodeled brick building that has two floors; the second floor will be home to the new Little Sprouts Preschool Academy. The inside has been completely refurbished with all new materials and furniture in every classroom. The school features spacious classrooms filled with natural light and two private playgrounds.

Little Sprouts will be celebrating the opening of this brand new school with an official Ribbon Cutting Ceremony later this summer. Little Sprouts staff and administration will be joined by families in the community. Imagine That, interactive play space, and NY Life representatives will be present to offer families various activities to participate in. Little Sprouts invites the Wilmington community and families to get a sneak peak of Wilmington Little Sprouts and meet some of the teachers at our open house on May 28, 2011 from 10am to 12pm.

To find out how you can enroll your child at any of the 13 Little Sprouts schools please visit www.littlesprouts.com

About Little Sprouts Inc.: Little Sprouts has been a leader in providing award-winning early education since 1982. Little Sprouts is a group of humanitarians that believe in the power of literacy to change the world; social, emotional, intellectual and physical literacy for children, youth, teachers and families. Little Sprouts believes in the commonality in humanity. They embrace that unity is best achieved by celebrating diversity. RMLD meter upgrade continues in Wilmington

READING - Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) will continue its meter upgrade project during May and June on Crystal, Mulch, Nathan, Quail Run and Wing Roads, Englewood, Henry L., Avalon and Evergreen Drives, Kenwood Avenue, Allenhurst Way, Redwood Terrace and the lower number addresses on West Street. During the upgrade, RMLD personnel will remove existing residential meters and install new ones.

Customers whose meters require replacement will experience a brief outage of five minutes during the upgrade. RMLD personnel will attempt to notify each customer by knocking on the front door of individual residences immediately before the meters are changed.

Scheduling information will be posted on the RMLD website, www.rmld.com and in the Wilmington newspapers.

"While we hope to have a very fluid process, there is a possibility that areas scheduled for replacement may be rescheduled. We thank our customers for their patience during this project," said RMLD's Engineering and Operations Manager Keyin Sullivan.

"The meters scheduled for replacement are approximately 15 years old and are reaching the end of their useful life," Sullivan added. "The new meters will improve both efficiency and reliability, and will also offer the possibility of providing enhanced energy usage information to customers. If your meter has been replaced within the past few years, it may not need to be replaced."

Please visit the RMLD website at www.rmld.com for further details. Any questions or concerns should be directed to RMLD Customer Service at 781-944-1340 or 781-942-6598.

White's Physical Therapy, LLC located at RMA Fitness is happy to announce they will be offering off-season sports training this summer for all high school and college athletes aged 14 and older looking to improve their game. In this program they will analyze your running efficiency and improve on your speed and power. White's is committed to developing the best-conditioned athletes on the field.

The instructor: Douglas White MSPT, L/ATC, CSCS has provided training programs for Olympic athletes as well as Div I college athletes for over 15 years, and now offers his coaching to local athletes this summer.

"While traditional sport camps focus on positional play to improve on techniques in game situations, at White's PT, LLC, focus is placed on the foundation of athletic ability; strength and conditioning."

The six week program is scheduled to run July 12 - August 18, 2011. The 12 professionally supervised sessions will run Tuesday and Thursdays 7:00pm - 9:00pm and will cost $150. For more information contact White's Physical Therapy at: White'sPhysicalTherapy.com or call: 978-658-5556

Sign up before June 10th and get 10% off the total cost of the program! For each team that signs up 5 or more, White's will put 10% back toward that team's booster program!

Discussion of Model School is premature mental concern. Being part of the Model School program would also bring in additional reimbursement points with the state agency.

The Feasibility Study phase of the project investigates several options with partnership between the community and MSBA. The district will have to review a remodel project, a new build project, and an option where nothing changes.

However, MSBA spokesperson Emily Mahlman says: not so fast.

"It is premature to speculate on participation in the Model School Program until a district's Feasibility Study is complete, all the potential solutions are evaluated and until the MSBA's Board of Directors votes to invite a district into the Model School Program," Mahlman told the Crier in an e-mail.

The town began working with Dore & Whittier Architects, Inc. following a February 2011 recommendation through the Designer Selection Panel with the MSBA. Members of the panel, including Town Manager Michael Cairra, Superintendent of Schools Joanne Benton and Business Manager Paul Ruggiero ranked each applicant's qualifications, experience, and references with Dore & Whittier placing first.

Having a contractor already in place does not mean that a town could not be invited into the Model School Program.

"Contracting with a designer does not preclude a district from participation in the Model School Program if that district is a good fit for the program and is invited to participate by the MSBA," said Mahlman.

If a new school is identified as the best solution following the Feasibility Study phase, then the model school conversation begins. Typically an architect is hired to help with the feasibility study but for districts invited into the Model School, program, plans from already-built schools are adapted to the site and the architects that built the model then take on the project.

Wilmington is currently eligible for the base reimbursement rate of 50.58 percent from the MSBA. That rate could rise based on a number of factors that will be determined further along in the process, such as two to three additional points for "green" energy efficient initiatives and 5 to 6 more points for being part of the Model School program. Adding up reimbursement points can score a greater percentage of the cost shouldered by the state. More information about the financial aspects of the project is expected to come from the Town Manager at the June 7 public forum.

and a rifle volley from the rifle team.

The parade will then regroup and head toward the reviewing stands at the Fourth of July Building.

Following the day's events, residents can take their children to grab a hot dog at the Fourth of July building Monday afternoon after the parade.

The annual Justin O'Neil Family Fun Day was held on Wilmington Common this past Sunday. Abby Sancarier, age 7, painted a pink butterfly on Jamie Cavallaro's face. Funds raised from this event go toward scholarships awarded Justin's name.

the recent Town Crier story about Dr. Silas Brown.

Dr. Jonathan Brown became a surgeon in the Civil War, only to return home with malaria, and then tuberculosis, from which he died in 1867.

With Colburn's encouragement, Francis Hathaway opened a shoe store in Boston, in Dock Square, near Faneuil Hall. By the time it closed in 1930, it was the oldest shoe store in Boston. For a few years, Francis and Lydia Hathaway lived in South Boston.

In 1872, there was a serious fire in Boston. The Hathaways packed everything into a wagon and fled the city. They went to Tewksbury, to live with Olive Carter Brown, widow of Dr. Jonathan Brown. Lydia was quite ill. Olive cared for her until she died.

Maria Brown and her brother William at this point had returned to the family homestead in Wilmington. After Lydia Hathaway's death, Maria married Francis E. Hathaway, becoming stepmother to two children, Frank and Hattie. Maria and Francis subsequently had two children of their own, John and George. George went to Harvard Medical School and became a Navy medic. John also went to Harvard and became an attorney. He served on the Wilmington School Committee for many years.

Francis (Frank) T. Hathaway went into the shoe business with his father. Together they invented the first arch-support shoe, patented as the "Hathaway Drop-Instep Shoe" and the Boston Garter. The Hathaways also had sold footwear to the Boston Police Dept.

Francis Hathaway would take the train home to Wilmington on Saturday nights with the week's receipts in a shoebox under his arm.

Francis and Maria Hathaway lived for many years on Dartmouth Street in Boston. In 1902, they bought Silas Brown, Jr.'s share of the Harnden Tavern. They named the place Ridge Hill Farm, also referred to as Ridgefield Farm. They rebuilt the barn, which stood near Woburn Street, north of the tavern. They also built a carriage house, close to Salem Street. That building is still standing, but the barn burned in 1929.

Francis E. Hathaway died in 1907. Maria kept the farm going, and it became known as the Maria Hathaway house. The land was split, with George taking the land west of Woburn Street, and John the land on the east side, including the land that is now Hathaway Acres.

Precinct realignment

Secretary of State allowing for a 5 percent 'maximum or minimum' within voting precincts, but she was not sure what those thresholds represented.

"That's the only explanation that I can have for it," George told the Board. "If somebody else understands better than I...again I will call tomorrow and find out about the minimum and maximum."

In order to determine how many voters should be included in each precinct, the total population is divided by the total number of precincts, and that result then becomes the target number of voters for each precinct. The target number for each precinct in Wilmington, after dividing 22,325 by 6, is 3,721. Achieving that precise number in each precinct is not realistic, so the Secretary of State allows for a maximum of five percent above or below the target number. In other words, no precinct in Wilmington may hold more than 3,907 voters, or fewer than 3,535 voters.

George attributes significant realignment of Precinct 3 to the addition of Windsor Place; a 100-bed assisted care facility, and Regency Place; a 100-plus unit apartment complex, neither of which existed in 2000.

George does not yet have a handle on how many residents will be affected by the realignment. The draft map, when accepted by the Board of Selectmen, will be submitted to the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State's office may, or may not, make additional changes to it. A final, approved version will be returned to the Town by August 15, 2011.

According to statute, voters must be notified of a precinct change at least 21 days prior to the next election, which in this case is the Presidential Primary of March 2012. However, George does not intend to cut it close - she expects to begin notifying affected residents in December or in early January at the latest.

"We will be disrupting as few voters as possible," George said. "Everyone will be informed in a very timely manner."

A significant number of residents will be affected, but George is especially interested in reaching out to those residents whose polling locations will be changed. Affected residents shifting from Precinct 4 to Precinct 5, for instance, will no longer be voting at the Wildwood School. Instead, they'll be voting at Town Hall.

The Board of Selectmen needs to approve of the draft map before it is sent to the Secretary of State's office. There was no need on the past Monday, George advised them, to rush to judgment. The map is due to the Secretary of State on June 15, and the next Board of Selectmen meeting is scheduled for June 13. George suggested that the Board may want additional information, which she could present on June 13.

Chairman Lou Cimaglia was absent from Monday's meeting due to illness, and Selectman Michael McCoy suggested holding off on approval until the June 15 meeting to provide an opportunity for Cimaglia to voice his opinion.

It was agreed that the Board will take the matter up during its June 13 meeting and that George will provide additional information at that time.

Taking sixth places were Rachel Alatalo in the 400 (61.70) and Erin Cowden in the discus with a throw of 78-08. To round out the scoring was the 4x100 relay team consisting of Savannah Hubbard, Parrella, Fryer and Heather Kealos, who had a combined time of 53.03 seconds, which was good for fifth place.

Wilmington also had a number of individuals put forth fine efforts despite not placing in the top six. Nikki Sirignano was 8th in the two mile as she came across at 12:55.53, and Sydnee Russo was another one who just missed out on placing as she was 9th in the mile at 5:45.99. In the 400, Cali Pepper was 10th at 63.58 and in the 200 Michelle Barnes was 13th at 28.67 seconds. In the field events, Kaitlyn Cowden (discus) and Lauren Bennett (javelin) both finished in 11th place, and finally Hubbard was 18th in the 400 meter hurdles.

Retired Wilmington High School teacher and track coach Frank Kelley pauses with Maralynn Johnson after their recent lunch at The Chateau in Waltham.

Listening leads to some 'Godwinks'

When God winks, He is affirming that there is absolutely nothing about us that He does not know- our every hurt, our every desire. And that to me is very comforting." Squire Russell, from his book 'When God Winks at You.'

Four months on the beach in South Florida can give a guy plenty of time to contemplate life. Long after that tan has faded to but a distant memory, a series of 'Godwinks' surrounds the soul. Even this old, grizzled sports writer had to own up to the fact that he was truly blessed to have met people like Frank Kelley and Maralynn Mayer Johnson.

First there was a friendly phone call. Maralynn had just finished reading my first book 'Our Mr. Kelley-A Lifetime of Coaching and Caring.' She liked the book very much thank you, and had begun to spread the word far and wide - way wide of even Wilmington, where Kelley is so beloved that he could draw hundreds of people to the first book signing at Rocco's Restaurant in late October. There were people who gave up that night and avoided a wait in the long line. Hopefully, anyone who left that line got to meet Mr. Kelley at the Wilmington Library, at the reunion of Gary Hastings' Wilmington High School class or a retired teacher's luncheon, not to mention a very nice gig with the men and women of the Wilmington Rotary Club. I've always said that meeting people like Frank Kelley and Maralynn Johnson is more than some simple connection - they are indeed events - or a new meaning about life that I latched on to between applications of sun screen.

While I was away dear readers I had the opportunity to really read- read like back when I was in college - seven books in four months. One of the books I read was Squire Russell's 'When God Winks at You'. Russell is a former executive at ABC Television and created such programs for young people like 'Schoolhouse Rock' and the 'ABC Afterschool Specials.'

Mr. Russell is no lightweight when it comes to helping teach young people something about matters of the heart. Russell's basic premise is that what some might call luck or twists of fate are actually what he calls 'Godwinks' that shape our lives. He ultimately concludes that with some work we all can learn to recognize and appreciate these 'winks' if only we would take the time to open our eyes.

What to me had seemed like a dream came with the realization that I had found a subject in Mr. Kelley who had managed to touch the hearts, the minds and the souls of thousands of young people. Now, Maralynn Johnson has not only connected with Mr. Kelley with her very similar story of years in the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children, but with several of the Peabody Home 'kids.'

Kelley and Johnson each had tuberculosis and lived in the Peabody Home years apart, and now Johnson was sending more 'Godwinks' my way helping me to connect with and get to know three others who had spent years building successful lives after some time spent in the New England Peabody Home. After some phone conversations with the Peabody Home 'kids', books were ordered, and of course that is very nice, but the real charge that I got from our book signings and conversations with readers was that Mr. Kelley's story had truly touched people.

First, they were surprised at the story of his time in the Peabody Home. And then some of that shock turned to respect combined with a teaching moment. Kelley and Johnson will be teachers in the truest sense of the word until the day they die.

When I came home, one of the first orders of business was to set up a lunch date with Maralynn Johnson. The retired Newton teacher wanted a place where we could talk, so The Chateau in Waltham seemed like a fine spot. Mr. Kelley (I've finally stopped calling him 'Frank' - I often settle for 'coach') and Johnson had talked a couple times on the phone but the face-to-face meeting was another of those 'Godwinks' for me.

I probably should have done a bit more listening, but the tape recorder was rolling right before our waitress recognized Maralynn and was ready to share the fact that her daughter was graduating from Waltham High School and on her way to Bentley College. There was not enough time between bites of my lobster ravioli. Mr. Kelley and Maralynn had a lot to offer this typist, so maybe it was time to stop stuffing my face and listen up. Hey, I might miss another one of those hard-to-come-by these-days 'Godwinks.'

Johnson, who in the book offers up much insight (and opinion) on her days at the Peabody Home, was far from finished. I leaned forward. This my friends, was another teaching moment - some minutes before I realized that another one of those 'winks' was about to come my way.

"Rather than looking at it (Peabody Home) as a bad experience it's what made us different. It's what made us independent. It's what made us strong," noted Johnson.

So strong that she recovered from what doctors called 'bovine tuberculosis' - which children in Johnson's day got from drinking unpasteurized milk. Maralynn surmises that she acquired her illness when she drank some of the milk offered with her cookies while visiting a farm in New Hampshire. That fact is not in the book. I was only beginning to learn by listening which to many of us these days is a too often neglected skill.

I've always thought that Mr. Kelley brought so many true teaching and listening skills to his days of coaching track-and-field at Wilmington, Weston and Reading High Schools. If only everyone was so good at listening. Mr. Kelley and Maralynn each listen to what you have to say and this is all the more engaging given the fact that both of them are admitted 'tree-talkers.' Unlike so many people these days, they don't talk to hear the sound of their own voices. They each have something special to offer. Do I feel a 'Godwink' coming my way?

"I would make a bet that Mr. Kelley looked at kids differently when he was teaching," says Johnson. "I bet than in his classroom he told kids that they could, therefore they did."

And, there was the major league life lesson of the Peabody Home.

"Where would I have been today - what would I have done with my lifetime had it not been for the Peabody Home? The option for me was that doctors were going to amputate my foot. There was no medicine," said Johnson.

But there were plenty of teachers and other kids their age. The young patients were not shut in a room and shunned. They received at the time (1930's early 1940's) what was considered state-of-the-art health care. Both Mr. Kelley and Johnson bristle at the notion that the Peabody Home was a bad place for these young patients. They point to their lives as solid evidence that the experience was more than worthwhile.

Lunch is almost finished, and Mr. Kelley eagerly awaits his strawberry sundae. All this 'tree-talking' can make a guy hungry. Like Mr. Kelley, Maralynn sometimes has trouble going into a local market for groceries. Like Mr. Kelley, there never really is that quick purchase of bread and milk.

"My husband won't go into Hanaford's in Waltham or the Star Market in Auburndale because I meet so many people," beams Johnson between bites of her stir-fried chicken. "I meet so many people. I love it. Maria, who works at the Star Market, still calls me teacher." Maralynn pauses to make a point. If you aren't already-listen up people.

"I always told the kids- if teachers aren't giving you homework, they are cheating you," says Johnson.

By this point in the meal, I hardly feel cheated. I just got a big-time 'Godwink'.

Before I hear anyone say that none of this stuff should be on the sports page- it says here that a whole lot of athletic success begins in the classroom. Relationships are built with athletes by teachers who often can be coaches after the bell rings.

If students learn to listen in the classroom, maybe they will get more out of any practice than they ever thought was possible. Am I getting too down-and-out philosophical for you? Maybe it might be time to send another 'wink' your way. I'll let Mr. Kelley handle this one.

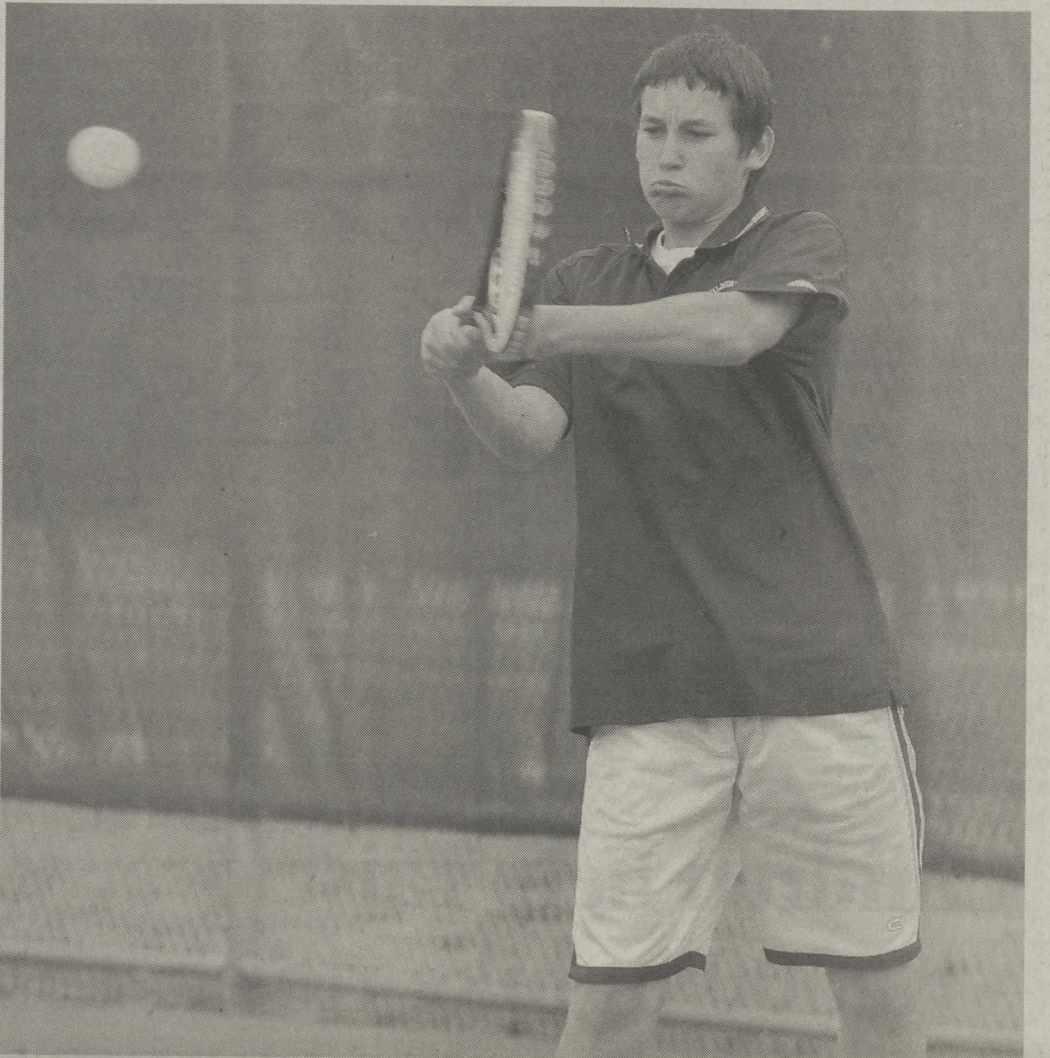

"Every once in a while I would say to the kids- I don't want to hear the words- 'I can't'. If I said those words, I would still be in the hospital."

You should always get the last word coach. Thanks for lunch- and of course another one of those very special 'Godwinks'.

(Comments regarding this column can be sent to rcooke1717@yahoo.com; Mr. Kelley and Rick Cooke will be at A Novel Café in Tewksbury on June 16, 6 pm and the Wilmington Library on June 22, 6:30 pm).

Alumni Softball, Reunion Event set for this weekend

The Wilmington Wildcat Athletic Alumni and Friends Organization has announced it will be hosting the Alumni Softball Tournament "Revised Battle of the High School Classes" on Saturday, May 28th and Sunday, May 29th at Aprile Field. You may sign-up as a team, or you may also sign up as an individual.

The cost of the tournament depends on if you are a member of the WAAF. A lifetime membership to the WAAF is $25.00, however if you don't belong to the organization, you still may play for a $10 fee.

There will also be a reunion dance on Sunday night following the softball tournament at the Knights of Columbus Hall for a $10 fee per person. If you belong to the WAAF, there is no fee to play softball or attend the reunion event.

All proceeds from the tournament and dance go directly to the Alumni Athletic Organization which supports WHS teams and student-athletes.

The organization is also putting together an Alumni Track Event which is scheduled for June, 12th.

For more information about the organization, the softball tournament or the track event, log onto: wilmingtonathletic alumni.com; or call Jack Cushing at 978-658-2170.

Children help raise over $10,000 in bike ride event

By LAUREN SPENCER
Sports Correspondent

There are hundreds of ways to raise money for cancer. But hosting a Pan-Mass Challenge Kids' Bike ride has proven to be a good way for Sue Hendee and the Wilmington community. They've done so for the past six years, and last Sunday's 2011 ride was as successful as ever.

Just about 100 young cyclists rode in this year's event on Sunday at the Boutwell Elementary School in Wilmington. They raised over $10,000 for the Dana Farber Institute and the Jimmy Fund, and they're still counting.

"You could just go online and make a donation to any place that you want, but I think [the PMC Kids' Ride is] special," said Hendee, who organizes the event with Carolyn Priem. "The reason why I like it is because it involved physical activity, it promotes a lifetime fitness activity for the kids and I know that actually some of the kids that have rode in our ride are looking into the future and want to do the adult PMC as well, which think is a really cool thing because I've been doing that for over 20 years and it's really a great event."

The event featured music, entertainment, raffles and prizes, and was a fun and enjoyable event for all, but Hendee was hopeful that the participants would see the deeper meaning behind the day.

"I hope the kids understand that it is a fun event and it is nice to do all of the stuff that we have - they get a cool T-shirt and it's fun to ride and get face paint and eat hot dogs and that stuff - but it really is about trying to raise money and trying to find a cure for cancer," said Hendee. "[Overall], it went well, the kids had fun, we didn't have any accidents or problems, and we've raised $10,000 so far but I think we've raised even more than that."

"The kids are allowed to fundraise all the way through October. We didn't have the numbers year that we had hoped for but considering that we had about 30 or 40 fewer kids than last year, I think our numbers were pretty good."

Hendee figured the drop in participation had to do with other charitable fundraising events going on in town around this time of year.

"There are a lot of things going on in Wilmington as far as fundraisers are concerned. I know that there was another road race [Sunday] afternoon. The Relay for Life is a big event in Wilmington another weekend, and they had a 5K run for another charity last weekend, so there's a lot going on."

But no matter how many people show up, Hendee said that any donation makes a difference.

"Any kind of donation that we can make [helps]. [The] $10,000 [we raised] is still a lot of money, especially given that the numbers weren't that huge. And I also really think at the kids are going to do a good job of continuing to fundraise."

Next year, Hendee said they are really hoping to get the approval to advertise for the ride in the school system, to attract more riders to participate. She said that didn't happen this year, but they were hoping that this year was kind of a foot in the door, and then next year they will be able to expand on it. They are also hoping to expand the ride and open it up to surrounding towns.

An addition to this year's ride was the Wilmington PMC Kids' Ride official pedal partner, Lyndsey Pettengill. A pedal partner is a child who has been treated at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute. She was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia at age three, and is now six years old and in the first grade. All cyclists at the Wilmington event will ride in Pettengill's honor and inspiration, and for the second year in a row, she will be strong enough to ride alongside them.

"We had Lyndsey Pettengill's mom speak to everybody as a little opening ceremony that we had," said Hendee. "Obviously this is a very emotional topic for her. You could tell how genuinely thankful she was for events like this because it shows that not only does the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and the Jimmy Fund provide top notch health care, it also makes it a warm and inviting and friendly place for the children to go to."

"The kids actually kind of forget that they're being treated there because they have so many great therapists and doctors and nurses on staff who really know who to deal with kids, and also things to distract them from their treatments to make it fun."

Hendee said that Lyndsey Pettengill was very excited. Her sister Lauren also helped by volunteering at the food tent and she was helping hand out snacks to the kids.

"It was nice to get the whole family involved," Hendee said. "That's the kind of thing that we like too, is bringing in entire families to come and enjoy the event. They stay there from start to finish, so that was nice too."

Hendee also added that the support among age groups was extremely prevalent as well.

"We have different grade levels ride at different times just to keep fewer riders on the to keep it a little bit safer, so some kids may stay and cheer for a rather or sister who may be riding in the next group, or for a friend that they know or neighbor that they may know that rides in the next group."

But in the end, after all the PMC and the Jimmy Fund do for children, everything the Wilmington community could do to help out certainly went a long way.

"I think that although there are other kids rides that raise a lot more money than we do, the PMC is very excited to have a community do whatever they can to help their organization," said Hendee. "What they provide for the kids is pretty amazing."

Girls Lacrosse team easily runs past Tewksbury

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

TEWKSBURY - Eight different players found the back of the net as the Wilmington High Girls' Lacrosse team easily defeated Tewksbury, 21-13, during a non-league game played Monday afternoon at the Livingston Street Field soccer complex.

Senior Amanda Keane led the way with six goals and another senior Fiona Gately added four as the Wildcats led 15-7 at the halftime break before making it a double digit lead throughout most of the second half. Tewksbury hockey and Jodi MacKenzie, the coach there, would often say the same thing about her team this past fall. But on Monday, it was clearly evident that Wilmington was the better team on this day, storming out to leads of 9-2 and 14-5. Most of that was thanks to senior Kellie Moon, who was immense on the face-offs.

"She's really good (on the face-offs)," said Kee. "It's unbelievable because she gets (the ball) up above - Kellie would be a gem for college teams because all she does is win draws and coach-have these fast breaks. Kristyn Callahan is another one who we will miss. She's phenomenal with the stick and putting the ball in the back of the net, so it's going to be very difficult to put a team together like that together again."

The 11 seniors on the varsity team - who were all honored before last Thursday's final home against North Reading - who will end their careers with the game against Burlington include: Amanda Keane, Fiona Gately, Haley Robarge, Kellie Moon, Nicole D'Agostino, did score the game's final four goals making the score a lot closer than it really was.

The win puts Wilmington at 4-11 overall with one game left on the schedule against Burlington on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime. The Wildcats defeated Burlington earlier this season. Head coach Maura Kee said that for her team, it's always been a matter of the opponent - and that usually determined the fate of the Wildcats' performance.

"When we feel confident that we can stay with a team, than the girls are on with everything," said the first-year head coach. "Their passing, their shots, their formations, everything was on today - dead on and for them when they feel like they can stay with the opposing team, it's all a confidence thing. If they come in and feel that the other team is stronger, they buckle, and when they feel like they are more evenly matched with the other team, they flourish. So I think it's just bottling that and trying to carry that through a season."

Most of the girls on the lacrosse roster also play field hockey. She is just so controlled. She just brings the ball in and goes with it and she's been an asset for sure."

So often during the first half, Moon would win a face-off, Wilmington could get control of the ball, and either Keane or Gately would explode through the middle of the Tewksbury defense and find the back of the net. That firepower, led by Keane and Gately offensively, will be missed as they are two of the team's 12 seniors who will be leaving the program.

"We have 12 total seniors and 11 with the varsity team and all of them are going to be hard to replace," said Keane. "Just today Amanda had six goals and she's been putting the ball in the net. Then just the leadership between Kellie Moon, Liz Jaeschke and Hayley Robarge, that's going to be a huge hit for us. They kept this team together and the girls looked up to them so much. Fiona has scored in every single game for us and she's been so consistent. (Jessica) Weaver has been like a quiet force - all of a sudden she'll come out of nowhere and Kaitlyn McGuire, Liz Jaeschke, Kristyn Callahan, Kim Nasiff, Emily O'Donoghue and Jessica Weaver. Kee was asked about first year as a varsity coach just a year removed from playing the game at the collegiate level.

"It's definitely interesting being on the other side of it now," she said. "I know now exactly how hard my coaches worked and what goes into a season, running a team and keeping everything together. There's grades, there's illnesses and it's a lot, a lot and all of a sudden you have a different million hats and I want to talk to you about this going on in my life or 'what do I do here' and it gives you the entire spectrum but I love it, I just love it."

"I've had just the best group of girls, and everyone in this system whether it's the girls, (athletic director) Ed (Harrison, assistant coach) Maureen (O'Mara) everyone has been fantastic, so I can't possibly have asked for anything more than that. I can't wait to come back next year - I just can't wait."

YMCA Swim Team tryouts

The YMCA Barracuda Swim Team will hold try-outs for the summer season at the Greater Lowell Family YMCA, 35 YMCA Drive, Lowell, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 14 and 15; 4:30 PM for new competitive swimmers and 5:15 PM for swimmers with some competitive experience. Participants must be able to swim 25 yards freestyle and 25 yards backstroke and will have practice schedules based on ability. The three-month season begins on June 20. Tennis teams wrap up their seasons

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High Boys Tennis team is preparing to wrap up what has been a surprisingly successful season this year and in one of their final matches of the season they picked up a big 4-1 in over non-league rival Billerica on Tuesday afternoon, giving them a 6-8 record with just one match left in the season.

With a young and mostly inexperienced team, Wilmington coach Rob Mailey did not know what to expect from his team entering the season, as they were coming off a 5-10 record last year, and looked as if they might have to take a step back this season before improving in the years to come.

But that was not the case, as the Wildcats put themselves in good position to finish as good as 7-8 if they are able to beat Triton on Wednesday, a team they have already beaten earlier in the season.

"It's a better record than last year and honestly more wins than I expected for this season," Mailey said. "But the kids played very well. We had a couple of close losses, where if we had won we actually could have qualified for the tournament, but regardless of that I am still very proud of this team and what they were able to do."

The last time the Wildcats had faced Billerica they had suffered a 4-1 loss, one of the few times all season when Mailey felt his team had not given their best effort, but there were no such worries on Tuesday as the Wildcats gave a complete effort to come up with the win.

Senior Adam Kline was a winner in first singles for Wilmington, winning 2-6, 6-3, 6-1 over an opponent that had defeated him in their previous meeting, while junior Zach Curley continued his improved play in second singles with a 6-3, 7-5 win.

"Adam was great. The difference for him this time was that he was very aggressive all the way through and he kept his errors down," Mailey said. "Zach has really been picking up his game as of late and this was perhaps his best win of the year."

The match of the day went to sophomore Will MacKinnon, who although he was unable to pick up a win, was outstanding in a 6-7 (10-8), 6-3, 6-4 loss in match that last three and a half hours.

"That was the longest match we have had all season and will played very well," Mailey said. "His opponent just had a little more left at the end, but I was very happy with the way Will played."

Both doubles teams also picked up wins for the Wildcats with the first doubles team of John Malone and Reg Dellapelli winning a three set match by a score of

Tennis teams wrap up their seasons

1-6, 7-6, 6-3 and Zach Anderson and Jamie Marra coming up with an impressive 6-4, 6-4 win.

"Both doubles teams played very well," Mailey said. "That was big for us because it clinched the match."

As this season winds down, Mailey is looking forward to an even better year next year when he brings back a strong corps of players that gained some valuable experience this season, but he also knows he will lose seem key seniors in Kline, the team captain and number one singles player along with Malone, Dellapelli and Mike Donohue. Kline will be especially hard to replace.

"Adam is our best player and he has been a terrific captain," Mailey said. "He as raised the bar for a Wilmington captain as far as getting kids to commit to the game and to stay in shape all year long and always give their best. That is something he did for us all year long."

With those seniors gone Mailey knows he will have to turn to his strong returning group and he feels like the team can take another step forward next season.

"I am excited about what we are bringing back, plus I know we have a strong group of eight graders who will be joining us next year," Mailey said. "We competed hard this year and I think we can only get better."

Girls Tennis

The Wilmington High girls tennis team dropped a 4-1 decision to Newburyport in their most recent match on Saturday morning. The match was a makeup of match that was postponed earlier in the season.

Although The Wildcats were unable to pick up the win, coach Kevin Welch saw some very good efforts out of his players, particularly the second doubles team of junior Melanie Flaherty and sophomore Delaney Gillis who got the Wildcats only win of the day with a 6-2, 6-0 victory.

"It was good to see the second doubles teams have some success after all the hard work they have put in this year," Welch said. "Melanie finished a strong week at second doubles picking up three wins in three matches. She partnered twice with Delaney and once with Nikkia to earn the three wins."

Sophomore Michelle Woods put a good battle before dropping a 6-4, 6-4 decision in third doubles while sophomore Katie Richardson also put up a fight before dropping a 6-4, 6-0 decision.

Sophomore Kristen Tavares dropped a 6-0, 6-1 decision in second doubles, but Welch was quick to point out that she actually played much better than the scores would indicate.

"Kristen losing (6-0 and 6-1) did not represent the way she played," Welch said. "She battled for the entire match, she has a great attitude out there if she continues to put in a strong effort she should become one the strengths of our team."

The first doubles team of senior forward Alyssa Fiorentino and fellow senior Courtney See played a great first set before dropping a 7-6 (7-2), 6-3 decision.

Last Thursday the Wildcats played a pair of matches against Triton and one again had some fine individual efforts despite dropping a pair of matches by scores of 4-1 and 3-2.

"I was very happy with the effort the girls put in. They played hard and really pushed Triton and made them earn the victories," Welch said.

While Woods, Richardson and Tavares were unable to pick up wins against Triton Welch was encouraged by their performances.

"Michelle lost a tough three set match in the first team match she has shown a ton of improvement this year and I look forward to seeing what she can bring to the team next year," Welch said. "Katie has been working hard. First singles is a difficult slot to be put in and she has handled it better than I would have as a sophomore. Kristen also showed me a lot yesterday. The sophomore singles players are getting better. The next few years coaching this team should be fun."

Flaherty was part of wins in two second doubles matches, pairing first with Gillis and later with Nikkia to earn the wins

Florentino and See lost their first match, but pulled out an impressive win in the second match. "They were not happy about the first match, so the second time out they focused and were able to get the win," Welch said.

Boys Lacrosse

The Wilmington High Boys Lacrosse team had their scheduled game against Triton on Tuesday canceled due to a combination of rain and lightning so their only match of the past week was a 16-9 loss at home to CAL rival Newburyport last Friday.

Despite the loss the Wildcats did get several outstanding efforts, with senior peter Leighton, along with Trevor Foley and Brian Priem each scoring three goals. Leighton and Priem also each added an assist in the loss.

Wilmington coach Mike Fay was happy with the way his team played even though they were not able to get the win.

"The kids played hard, so it was disappointing to not get the win, but Newburyport is a very talented team and they are very well coached," Fay said. "We have had some injury problems as well, so that makes it hard for us. The kids run hard and play hard, but after a while the body count just starts to add up."

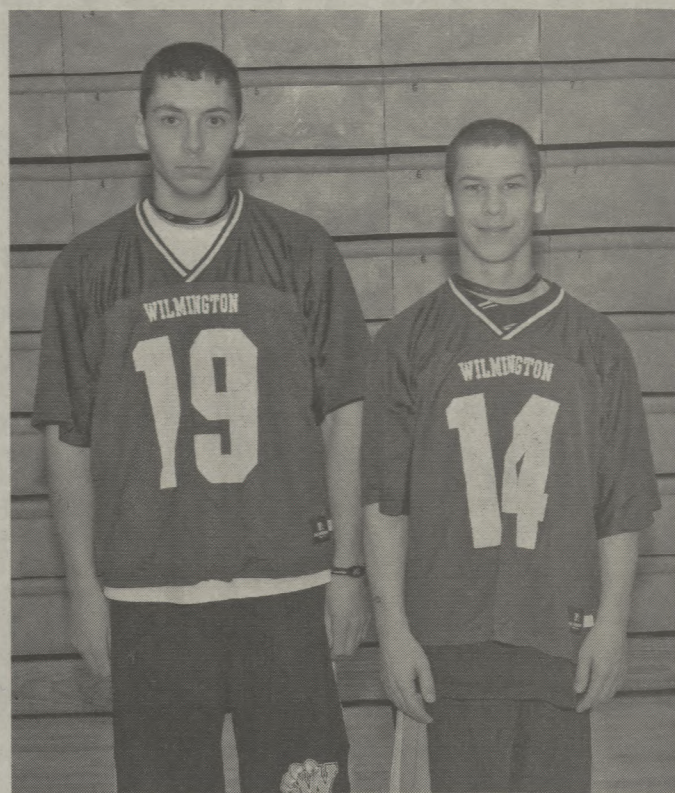

After a strong start to the season the Wildcats have struggled quite a bit down the stretch, facing a brutal Cape Ann League schedule. Fay has been proud o the way his team has battled against the stiff competition all year long, but at the same time he is looking forward to next season when his team will take on opponents in their new league, the Middlesex Small School Division.

"This has been the toughest schedule we have ever played," Fay said. "It is a pleasure to play teams like Masco, Andover, Hamilton-Wenham, Newburyport and Ipswich, but those are all some very good teams. It gave us a good idea of where we should be every year. On the other hand, we are looking forward to playing some schools that are still very talented but more our size next year."

Despite the losses mounting up at the end of the season Fay was still very pleased with ho his team played this season, as they bounced back from just a two win season last year to showed a marked improvement.

"We did a lot this year," Fay said. "We definitely felt the stress of playing against some of the tougher teams, but really it does not hurt you to do that. Now we know some qualities that we can work on for next season."

As they head into next season two players the Wildcats will be without will be seniors

Leighton and Andy Wells. Leighton, an attack and Wells, a defenseman were the leaders for the Wildcats both on and off the field, and the team definitely felt the loss of Wells who missed five games this year due to injury before returning to the lineup recently.

"We counted on Peter to run our offense and he did a great job of continually creating great scoring chances by initiating the offense," Fay said. "We are going to miss him. He did a great job for us."

Fay knows the team will miss Wells equally as much on defense.

"We will miss his defensive leadership on the field," Fay said. "We definitely missed him this year when he was out. You feel so bad for him to have to miss part of his senior season, and then of course you selfishly feel bad for the team and program because it is so tough to lose a player like that."

One player who will be returning next year is junior goalie Adam Siegel. Siegel had never been a goalie before this season, so Fay was very impressed with the way Siegel stepped up when the team needed a goalie this season as well as with the way he played once he was in net.

"We needed a goalie and we asked him to do it for us and he did it," Fay said. "You have to respect him for putting the team first. He has mad some great saves for us, especially in some of our close games earlier in the year. It is a tough position to play, but he sells out every game. He does everything necessary to make the save."

Wilmington Youth Softball and Little League highlights

Softball U12:

Purple 24, Blue 6

In a game that was much closer than the 24-6 score would indicate, the U-12 Purple Team was able to defeat the U-12 Blue Team this past weekend. Purple's win came on the pitching arms of Melissa McNamara and Jen Dovidio and the strong defense played by Kyra Walsh and Erin Kelley.

The Blue team started strong and stayed aggressive throughout the game lead offensively by Katie Newton and Ellen Klucznik while Rose Roche and Katie Stevens were chipping in by making the stellar defensive plays. In the end, however, it was the offense of Maeve Kilbride and the other Purple Players that was the difference in Purple's win.

Red 19, Orange 14

Team Red overtook Team Orange with some late defensive heroics to pull out the victory. Erin Riel had three hits and Teresa Gracia had a big late inning single to help the pithing of Gracia and Dana Goulet. Amanda Corrigan, Alison Sullivan, and Goulet made some great plays for the Red team. Meghan Rodenhiser had 2 hits, Shannon Horgan and Natalie Medros each had big hits for Orange. Medros and Katelyn Ardito pitched some strong innings as well.

Red vs. Orange:

It was a beautiful spring evening for a softball game as U12 Blue took on U12 Red. It was a back and forth battle with Red prevailing in the end. Reds attack was lead by the great hitting of Katie Colombo and Tori Tompkins. Also playing a major role in the win was Jackie Broderick, who made some great plays in the field and Dana Goulet, who was masterful on the mound.

The Blue team kept it close with a 10-hit attack lead by Sara Bray, Katie Newton, and Jamie Stone. Jennifer Tague also contributed with stellar play in the field.

Blue vs. Orange:

The U12 Blue team battled U12 Orange in a cold rainy evening at the High School. It was an exciting game in which Blue pulled out a one run victory. Blue was lead by Madison Knibbs three hit effort, one which was a bases loaded clearing double. Jackie Fraser also contributed to the offense getting on base four times and Juliana Rosa made some great plays in the field. Playing a major role behind the plate was Samantha Grasso, who made two spectacular catches that left the crowd buzzing even after the game was over.

Team Orange had a great hitting attack of there own. They were led by Samantha Maragioglio, Angela Steed, and Natalie Medros, who kept the Blue fielders on there toes the entire game. Also contributing to the attack was Katelyn Ardito, who reached base five times.

Baseball Junior League

Cardinals 2, Braves 2

The Cardinals and Braves played a classic game on Monday. The pitching of Joe Kelly five innings of no hit baseball with Danny Stein going four complete of one hit ball. The catching of Billy Falter kept the Braves running at check with three putouts behind plate. Ryan Flood also kept runners in line as the teams went back and forth with play after play.

The relief pitching of Kevin Cummings and Brendan O'Flaherty kept the game scoreless into the 7th inning. The Cardinals worked two runs in the top of the innings to take the lead. The Braves battled to load the bases with no outs and after a great double play turned by Joe Kelley, Mike Danciewicz and Billy Falter.

Major League Baseball:

Orioles 11, Tigers 0

Edmond DeAngelis was led the way for the Orioles, pitching a complete game against the Tigers, striking out nine batters, while only giving up four hits. Orioles hitters with two hits each included, Justin Collins, Kyle Collins, Matt Rideout, and Edmond DeAngelis. Quinton Foley, Patrick Flaherty, Nathan Frye, and Michael Daley also had hits for the Orioles.

Tigers hitters included Chance Harper with two hits, Grahame Smith, and Brian Domek. Josh Buske played a solid defensive game at first base for the Tigers, as did Jake Fulkerson at second base.

White Sox 8, Orioles 6

The wind was blowing out, and both teams bats were hot in this Saturday afternoon slugfest, as the White Sox outlasted the Orioles 8-6.

The White Sox offense was led by the booming bats of Ryan Warner and Collin Murphy, who each not only had two hits apiece, but each smashed their first Home Runs of the season. The other Sox hitters were Chris Greco, Steve Lobao, and Brendan Pierce.

The White Sox didn't miss many Orioles bats, as nine of the Birdmen had hits. These included Kyle Collins [2], Alex Frye, Justin Collins, Nick Rufo, Matt Rideout, Edmond DeAngelis, Mike Daley, Jonathan Sears, and Nathan Frye. Justin Collins made two run saving catches in center-field for the Orioles, as his defense was excellent.

Red Sox 6, White Sox 3

The Red Sox scored five runs in the first two innings, and then held on to defeat the White Sox 6-3.

Darren Maceachern pitched four strong innings for the Red Sox allowing only one run. Matt Ametola led the Red Sox offense with two hits, followed by Jason Valle, Quinton DeStefano, and Brian Carroll. Jason Valle closed out the game with a perfect scoreless inning in relief.

The White Sox managed only four hits, two from Collin Murphy, and two from Connor Mac Kenzie. Sean Higgins was dazzling in two relief innings, as the big lefty struck out five Red Sox.

Indians 7, Twins 5

A dramatic two-run walk off home run by Scott Edwards capped a thrilling four-run sixth inning as the Indians defeated the Twins 7-5. Trailing 5-3 heading into the bottom of the sixth Riley Zaya and Michael Cocco walked; Zach Ahlin beat out on infield scoring Zaya. An attempted double steal scored Cocco with Ahlin out at second base. Following a strikeout, Tate Kennedy lined his second double of the game to set the stage for Edwards's blast.

Mike Cocco kept the Indians in the game pitching four innings allowing three runs while striking out six. Jarred Aucoin pitched the final two innings to pick up the win. It was the Indians second walk off win in twodays.

The Twins were led by the pitching of Justin Kannally who went four innings giving up three runs, while striking out eight, and the hitting of Stephen Bonish, Kyle Ritson and Cole Walsh.

A's 2, Twins 1:

The A's hold on to beat the Twins 2-1 in a well pitched game. Cam Walsh pitched four-plus innings without allowing a base hit. Bobby Lord closed things out getting the last four outs on just 20 pitches. The Twins got six innings out of Ben Maynard who was in complete command of the strike zone, giving up just three hits. A's hits were from Tommy Worob, TJ Prior and Pat Dunfey. The lone Twin hit came off the bat of Justin Kannally.

Defensive play's of the game included the Twins' Justin Kannally, while playing third base as chased a shallow fly down the third base line and made an over the shoulder catch that saved a run. The A's ended the game with Robbie DuCharme throwing a strike to David Silveira at second on an attempted steal.

Tigers 4, Red Sox 1

Led by the pitching of Steve Cardarelli and Ryan Aldrich the Tigers edged by the Red Sox 4-1. After struggling in the second inning Cardarelli settled down and limited the Red Sox to one run scored by Kyle Penny after Matt Amentola was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. The tandem of Cardarelli and Aldrich limited the opposition to two hits.

The combination of Dom Malatesta, Darren MacEachern and Anemtol were equally as good limited the Tigers to three hits. The game was well played as each team played without a defensive error. The Tigers offense was led by Jared Spinney's base running scoring two runs. Chance Harper scored from first on a fourth inning double by Cardarelli to make it 2-1. Jake Fulkerson with two out in the fourth had a perfectly place bunt single to make the score 3-1. Aldrich was strong in the fifth and sixth inning allowing one hit over an inning and two thirds.

AA Baseball

Phillies vs. Dodgers:

The Phillies and Dodgers matched up on a rainy night. The Dodgers struck first and then the Phillies offense woke up scoring 16 runs in four innings. Chris Stokes and Pete Marino threw the ball outstanding for the Phillies. Coleman Kelly, Pete Marino and Richie McNamara led the offense with two hits a piece. The Phillies offense showed some power as Christopher Stokes and Richie McNamara had a home run each. The defense was led by Kyle Bacon who made a nice catch in the outfield and Chris Stokes who picked off a Dodger from the catching position making a nice throw to first to end the game.

The Dodgers got good pitching from Mike Fiorenza and Anthony. They pitched with determination. Calvin Stafford, Tim Trevisone and Phil Marchese made some nice plays in the field for the Dodgers. Kyle Bolis Zach Danciewicz and Billy Harty made the Phillies pitching staff work all game.

Cardinals vs. Phillies

The Phillies and Cardinals squared off on Saturday morning. The Phillies shut out the Cardinals for the first three innings with Chris Stokes dominating on the mound. Kyle Kenyon pitched two good innings for the Phillies while Pete Marino pitched the last inning for the Phillies. The Phillies only got seven hits all game, but they were all big run producing hits with Pete Marino leading the offense going 2-for-3.

The Cardinals got stellar pitching from Joe McInney and Ben Wright. Max Shapiro played his heart out behind the plate. Dom Pedi led the Cardinals offense with two hits on the day including a bomb for a home run while Max Shapiro and Joe McInney contributed with two hits a piece.

Single A Baseball

Pirates vs Rays

The Pirates were led by two solid innings of pitching by David Frasier. Offense was supplied by Ryan Regan, with a double and two RBI's. Jake Danieli and Justin Crowley also had two RBI's. The Rays had strong pitching from Dean Nally and Christian Robarge. The defense by Jimmy Valente was exceptional.

Pirates vs Royals

Another strong pitching performance was seen from Keith McDonald, Damien Elkins and Richie Stuart. The offense was led by Ryan Regan and Anthony Bowker. On the defensive side Jake Danieli had four putouts and Thomas Grecco had some outstanding plays. The Royals led by Shaun Kelly's big hits, and fine pitching kept the game close. Jake Arsenault and Daniel Slattery played a great defensive game.

Wildcats prevail on the diamond over Redmen

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

WILMINGTON — It was a game that both teams desperately needed if either one wanted to make it to the state tournament. It was a game that saw Wilmington run or hit into three double plays, while Tewksbury ace pitcher Matt Luppi came out with soreness to his throwing shoulder, and Wilmington junior pitcher Vinny Scifo, come away with a victory despite obviously not having his best stuff.

Scifo escaped late inning trouble as Tewksbury scored three runs in the top of the sixth inning, but was able to retire the side in order in the seventh as Wilmington improved to 8-9 on the season with the 5-4 win over Tewksbury, who fell to 6-9.

Wilmington will now need two wins in its final three games to make it to the state tournament with the necessary ten wins. The Wildcats faced Georgetown on Tuesday afternoon and then will be off until this weekend's Dick Scanlon Memorial Tournament with Chelmsford coming to town on Saturday, followed by a game against either Reading or Wayland in the championship or consolation final on Sunday. The Wildcats need to win two of those three games to get in.

"That's a huge win (over Tewksbury)," said Wildcat head coach Aldo Caira. "We needed that to have any shot at getting into the state tournament. We still have our work cut out for us this week. We have to get two more (wins), and (after today) it's workable. We go to Georgetown on Tuesday and they have been struggling, and over these last two games we got our bats going so if we can get that one, that means we'll need to take at least one out of two games in the (Scanlon tournament) against Chelmsford and then either Reading or Wayland (in the second game)."

Tewksbury fell to 6-9 on the season, but recovered the next day with a 5-1 win over Austin Prep putting the team at 7-9. On Tuesday, the Redmen faced Dracut in a huge MVC Division 2 showdown, before wrapping up the season in the annual Lawrence tournament, with games against Methuen and then either Lawrence or North Andover. Lawrence has already defeated Tewksbury twice, and North Andover crushed Wilmington by double digits last week.

Tewksbury head coach Ron Drouin was emotionally spent after Sunday's loss, and has a hard time wondering what has happened to his team after starting out with a 4-1 record. Again, like many of the other defeats this season, Tewksbury started out of the gate too slow, which eventually costs them in the end.

"That seems to be the motto of our season," said Drouin. "We fall behind, we make a valiant comeback (and we fall short). That's what happened on Friday. We were down 7-6 to Peabody and we had bases loaded with one out in the sixth inning and we have a runner picked off second base. We're down here at we have a guy thrown out at the plate, we can't get a hit when we need too and we drop a line drive in the outfield. It's been that way for a long time — been that way for two or three years now. We have a gun and we just shoot ourselves in the foot every single game we play. It's like a giant hump and we have to find a way to get over it. We needed to win a game like this and a game like Friday to get over that hump and we haven't."

"I think they are trying and I also think we are kind of tapped out. We've got a lot of games in a lot of days and now Luppi is sore so obviously I'm concerned. We're running out of outs if you want to use the poker analogy - we're running out of outs and there's just so many cards left in the deck that are going to help us. We have pretty good kids and I want better for them and we just can't get a break. We can't find a break, we can't make a break - not find one, we got to make one. I'm proud of Alan Hood who threw six great innings on Friday to keep us in that game, and he came back after one day rest to throw a big inning for us today. Robbie Wallace is working hard and my heart breaks for him."

Wilmington jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning. Phil Lentini, Dalton Rolli and Cole Pepper also had singles, while Sean Hanley added a sacrifice fly. Tewksbury got on the scoreboard in the third inning as Sean McCarthy singled in Eric Heider making it 2-1, but Wilmington answered the bell in the home half scoring a run as Rolli singled to right field to drive in Scifo who doubled past the third base line to lead off the inning. Those runs came off starter Matt Luppi, who was taken off the mound with one out in the bottom of the fourth with shoulder soreness.

The score stayed the same until Wilmington scored two unearned runs in the bottom of the fifth as Rolli doubled and came in on a dropped line drive to the outfield, and then Hanley came around to score as Pepper reached on an infield single making it 5-1.

But Tewksbury's didn't lay down. In the top of the sixth the Redmen scored three runs. With one out and the bases empty, McCarthy singled and then scored as Luppi hit a home run over the field fence. Matt Skotz followed with a single and two batters later Ryan White ripped a RBI double to the right center field gap making it 5-4 before Scifo got out of the jam with a fly out and the game remained 5-4 the rest of the way.

All in all Wilmington ended the game with seven hits and took advantage of five walks and two errors.

"We were aggressive (on Saturday in a 8-7 win over Hamilton-Wenham) at the plate and we just tried to to

Girls Lacrosse team qualifies for tourney

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILERICA - At the start of the season, not a lot of people thought that the Shawsheen Tech girls lacrosse team would be good enough to qualify for the state tournament. And when the Lady Rams started the season 0-4-1 there were probably even fewer who thought they could get it done.

But on Monday afternoon, that is exactly what they did, rolling to a 15-6 road win over Malden, to finish the regular season at 7-6-1 overall and earn what at one time seemed like a near impossible spot in the state tournament.

The Lady Rams finished their season with a 7-2 record in their final nine games and more importantly they were 3-0 this past week, when they knew they needed to win all three games in order to qualify for the tournament.

First year coach Maggie Joyce was thrilled not only with her team qualifying for the tournament, but also with their overall improvement as the season went on.

"I feel like everyone just exceeded all of my expectations," Joyce said. At the beginning of the season I just wanted them to be able to get a few wins, so to get to the state tournament is amazing. I have seen every person on this team grow and it just makes me feel great as a coach."

When the team was 0-4-1 the tournament may have felt like an unrealistic goal, but it was not something that Joyce or her team worried about because it was not the goal at the start of the season. One advantage of having a team not expected to do much is that there was very little pressure on them even after some tough losses.

"At that point in the season I don't think we were necessarily thinking about making the tournament. That was not our goal," Joyce said. "Even if we had, not ended up making it I would still just have been so happy with how much we have changed as a team. We did not have to make the tournament for me to be proud of what they have done, but I am so glad we did."

Heading into the week, the Lady Rams had indeed made Joyce proud, putting themselves in position to at least have a chance for the tournament, but the task ahead of them was still a difficult one, as they needed to win all three of their games, against Watertown, Dracut and finally Malden.

Shawsheen did not seem to be bothered by the pressure of needing three wins as they simply went out and took care of business. They began the week by beating Watertown by a score of 17-10 in a road game last Thursday and followed that up with a 20-7 home win over Dracut on Saturday before clinching their tourney spot with the win over Malden.

In the Malden win, the Lady Rams got four goals from senior Laura Sorenson and two each from Lindsey Gonsalves of Tewksbury along with Kim Barriss, Jessica Houghton and Marissa Irwin. Erin Elliot and Katelyn Gordon of Tewksbury each added one goal as did Katie Vultaggio.

The balanced scoring has become a trademark of these Lady Rams in the past few games.

"It's great to see that and that has been a big part of us winning the way we have," Joyce said.

The scoring has certainly been balanced, but also Sorenson has stepped up above all others. Prior to her four goal outburst against Malden she had six tallies against Dracut and four against Watertown.

"Laura has really shined for us," Joyce said. "She did a great job for us this week."

Barriss had three goals against Dracut and two against Watertown, while Jess Houghton and Tewksbury's Kelsey Farraher each had three against Watertown.

Softball squad wins fourth straight title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILERICA - With a pair of key league wins this past week the Shawsheen Tech softball team clinched their fourth consecutive CAC Large School title. The Lady Rams clinched the title with a 6-1 toad win over Chelsea on Monday, and also had a huge 5-3 win over arch rival Greater Lowell last Friday.

Those wins, along with a tough 5-4 loss to non-league rival Wilmington on Tuesday night, saw the Lady Rams finish their regular season with an overall record of 15-5, while they were 13-1 in the CAC.

In the win over Chelsea, which was shortened to a five inning game due to Chelsea having to play two games on the same day, Shawsheen broke open a close game with five runs in the fourth inning and were led by a stellar pitching performance by Charlene Sullivan of Wilmington who tossed a no hitter while striking out four and walking three.

"Charlene had an excellent game," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "She walked a few more batters than we would have liked, but overall she was outstanding."

Offensively Shawsheen was lead by Tewksbury residents, freshman Danielle Cacciola and junior Franny Pesantes. Cacciola had a three run tripe in the fourth inning while Pesantes had a two run double.

The Chelsea game clinched the league crown for Shawsheen, but in reality the biggest game of the week was the win over Greater Lowell on Friday, as that win gave Shawsheen the separation they would need from both the Gryphons as well as Whittier.

Senior third baseman Kristina Lees led the Lady Rams offense with four hits, including a double and three RBI.

"Kristina really stepped up for us," Buckley said. "She had a huge game for us, and her offense had a huge impact on the game."

Also having a huge impact for Shawsheen was pitcher Emily Hamilton of Tewksbury, who pitched a complete game, scattering nine hits while striking out six batters.

Buckley was very proud of the effort of her team in winning their fourth straight league crown, particularly her seniors, Kristina Lees and Brooke Mallahan, who have won a league title every year of their high school careers.

"That is a fine tribute to our seniors," Buckley said. "Not only have they won a title all four years, but they also have only three CAC losses in their four year career, so my hats off to them."

In Shawsheen's final regular season game of the year they suffered a 5-4 loss on the road to Wilmington on Tuesday night, allowing all five runs to the Wildcats in a rather sloppy fifth inning where several errors led to all of the Wilmington runs.

"We actually played pretty well for most of the game, but we had a very messy inning and against a good team like Wilmington that will cost you," Buckley said. "Wilmington is a very well coached team and they took advantage of our mistakes."

Hamilton was once again outstanding pitching for the Lady Rams, scattering eight hits and striking out two batters in the losing effort.

Stephanie Champoux and Meredith Bonugli, both of Tewksbury, were outstanding offensively for Shawsheen. Champoux was 2-for-4 with three RBI while Bonugli was 3-for-3 with an RBI as well. Lees had another fine day offensively, going 2-for-4 with a run scored.

"Give our girls credit," Buckley said. "They battled all day long. They had that tough inning, but they kept battling. We got two in the fourth and two in the fifth to get closer, but we just could not get the big hits later in the game when we needed them. We pulled ourselves together really well and there is a good lesson in that."

Baseball bunch on verge of qualifying

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILERICA - The Shawsheen Tech Baseball team has put themselves in good position to qualify for the state tournament. As they head into the final two games of their season. With two big wins this past week the Rams were able to level their record on the season to 8-8, (6-5 in CAC large) and they now must win one of the final two games in order to qualify.

The Rams strong week started last Wednesday with a 9-2 home win over Chelsea and wrapped up with an important 6-3 win over Greater Lawrence on Monday on the road.

In the win over Greater Lawrence the Rams fought back from a 3-2 deficit after three innings led by an outstanding itching performance by Austin Cummings in relief. In four innings of work, Cummings did not allow a run and allowed only three hits while the Rams offense scored a pair of runs in the fourth and two more in the seventh to get the win.

"Cummings did a great job of shutting them down until we were able to get our offense going," Shawsheen coach Jim

Sullivan said. "He came up real big for us."

Shawsheen's Joe Sodergren of Tewksbury was a big part of the comeback for the Rams, going 2-for-4 on the day with a double and a triple while freshman Chase Rebidue gave Cummings and the Rams some important breathing room with a two RBI single in the top of the seventh to break open what was a one run game at the time.

In their previous game on Wednesday against Chelsea, the Rams had been even better, picking up a 9-2 win behind a complete game effort from Mike Bowse of Tewksbury, who struck out eight while allowing only four hits to help his team to victory.

Bowse was outstanding at the plate as well, going 3-for-4, including a double and three RBI's.

"Mike was the man for us in all aspects of the game," Sullivan said. "He has had a great second half of the season. He has come through real well for us."

Paul DePlacido also had an outstanding day at the plate for Shawsheen; going 2-for-3 with two RBI's to help lead the offense.

Sullivan was pleased with the overall effort of his team to pick up what was a huge win over the CAC Small School champions.

"That was a big game for us," Sullivan said. "We hit the ball well, were aggressive on the base paths and played good defense. You could sense we were on a mission right from the start."

Shawsheen's final two games are against CAC rival Greater Lowell on Wednesday, followed by non-league rival Ashland on Saturday. The Rams have struggled against both teams this season. Dropping an 8-3 decision to Greater Lowell earlier in the year and suffering a 6-4 defeat against Ashland as well.

But Sullivan feels that his Rams are a different team than the one who played in those previous contests, particularly the game against Ashland.

"I don't think we played particularly well in that game," Sullivan said. "We were a very young team and the kids needed to gain some experience and some confidence, and I feel like we have done that since then. I think we will play much better this time."

Boys Lax team champs once again

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILERICA - The Shawsheen Tech Boys Lacrosse team were once again big favorites to win the CAC title this year, and just has they have done now for five years in a row they responded brilliantly to those high expectations, clinching their fifth straight CAC title last Wednesday afternoon with a 15-5 win over Minuteman, wrapping up a perfect season in the CAC as they improved to 16-1 overall and 13-0 in the CAC.

With two more wins this week, by scores of 5-3 over Lowell as Thursday and then 14-0 over Blackstone on Monday the Rams record was 18-1 overall as they prepared for their final regular season game against Burlington on Tuesday night.

Coach Chuck Baker has been a part of all of those championship teams, but he still appreciated the effort given by his team all year long in order to keep their league title streak.

"The senior class has won league titles all the way through and this group is very talented," Baker said. "Some underclassmen complement them very well on the field, forming a solid lineup."

With a season as successful as the Rams have had there are not many losses to point to, but their only loss, in the seventh game of the season to non-league rival Westwood, may actually have been a good thing for the Rams.

"The team has played well all season long, except for the first half against a very athletic Westwood team," Baker said. "I wish we could have that one back, but better yet, the loss may have been great motivation for the team." I think if we are healthy and play with the intensity we showed last week VS Lowell, we could fair well in the playoffs."

The win against Minuteman was very impressive of course as it wrapped up another undefeated league season for the Rams, but their 5-3 win on the road over non-league rival Lowell last Thursday may have been even more important in their preparation for the state tournament.

"The team was up for the game and with it being Lowell's Senior Night, the team was even more motivated to win," Baker said. "The seniors were determined and got the underclassmen to buy in. We played very well defensively and offensively, but we just didn't put the points up. Lowell's goalie is very good. That was probably the best all around game we played all season."

While the Rams offense did not put up the big numbers they usually do, they got all the offense they would need from their top two scorers with Tim Hunt of Wilmington scoring two goals and Erik Dellano adding a goal and an assist.

Dellano and Hunt are now each over 40 goals on the season for Shawsheen.

"Both have been doing a great job," Baker said. "Erik has a great shot off the right wing at attack, a true lefty, and Tim has a knack of settling in the crease area to pick his spot in the back of the net and is only a sophomore."

Shawsheen goalie Frankie Mearles made 11 saves to earn the win.

In the win over Minuteman the Rams offense was clicking at its usual pace, led by Hunt's three goals and three assists as well as a goal and a remarkable seven assists from Tewksbury's Ryan Woolaver.

Rams' wrestlers moving on

The Shawsheen Valley Technical High School wrestling team's success is well known throughout the state.

The Rams have been the state's top vocational-school program and Commonwealth Athletic Conference champions for the past five years with plenty of talent still at coach Mark Donovan's disposal.

In recent years, several Shawsheen grapplers have taken their skills to the next level and competed for college programs.

This year's batch of Shawsheen Tech wrestlers is also sending its share of competitors to the collegiate level. Recently, senior heavyweight Stephen Higgins, signed a letter of intent to wrestle for Mercyhurst University in Pennsylvania. Teammate Anthony Finn, who wrestled at 135 pounds, will grapple for Missouri Valley College and Ryan Cassidy, a 171-pounder for the Rams, will join the squad at Bridgewater State College.

Although still undecided as to where, Anthony Pimentel, who competed at 215 pounds, also plans to continue his career as a grappler.

Donovan was thrilled with Higgins' decision.

"He's probably one of the top heavyweights I've ever had conditioning-wise," Donovan said. "We work pretty hard in our [wrestling] room."

A four-year starter for the Rams, Higgins was a two-year CAC all-star and a two-time state vocational champion. He also placed second in Div. 1 North as a junior and third as a senior.

"He fought through some adversity," said Donovan, adding that Higgins endured shoulder surgery during his career.

Donovan said Mercyhurst coach Mike Wehler was enthusiastic when Higgins contacted him.

"Steve went out there and [Wehler] fell in love with him," Donovan said. "He's a fantastic kid," agreed Wehler, whose team won the NCAA Div. 2 national title in 2009. "He's the type of kid we're excited to have in our program. We don't get a lot of kids from the Northeast so it's good to get him. He's a big, strong kid. I think he's going to make an impact."

Wehler said Mercyhurst's starting heavyweight, Fred Hale, went to the national finals last year and will return this year.

"He's a great person for Steve to train with for a year," Wehler said.

Finn was a well-rounded athlete at Shawsheen that ran cross country and played baseball along with wrestling.

"He had a great senior year," Donovan said. "Anthony is a very hard worker with great character. He still has a lot of talent to be shown in the college level. I don't even think Anthony has peaked to his level of ability yet. It has been my pleasure to have coached a kid of his stature."

A captain as a senior, Finn was a four-year starter for the Rams and a two-time all-star. He won two state vocational championships. Finn won the Div. 1 North championship as a senior and made it to the final of the all-state tournament.

Cassidy was a two-time Div. 1 North sectional champion his junior and senior year and was a two-time Mass. vocational state champ, Cassidy finished second in both the North and state tournament and ended up sixth in New England this winter.

As for the Rams already in college, the results were tremendous.

Geick won three matches for Wheaton College last year and, at BU, Najjar competed as a 197-pounder and finished with an overall record 3-3. He is one of only three Mass. students on the Terrier roster.

Locals compete in various road races

By LAUREN SPENCER & NICK PARSONS

This past Sunday, T.H.E. FARM (Tewksbury Hospital Equestrian FARM) hosted a 5K run and walk to benefit their charity.

T.H.E. FARM is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization and NARHA Premier Accredited Center. It provides equine therapeutic programs for the general public, as well as for clients of Tewksbury Hospital, schools and other service agencies. T.H.E. FARM offers public riding and horsemanship programs and services for individuals of all abilities. Donations made at the event benefited such programs.

The 5K course traveled through beautiful farmland and fields, past T.H.E. FARM's picturesque horse pastures, and finished at the hospital's historic buildings. The race saw over 40 finishers, including 11 from Tewksbury. Marli Piccolo, 41, finished sixth overall. She finished with a time of 24:12. Lisa Maciel, 41, finished eighth with a time of 24:20. Caitlin DeFrancesco, 20, finished with a time of 26:11. Michael Torode, 33, finished with a time of 28:09, as did Jim Williams, 38. Katie Torode, 33, finished in 28:19. Rita Labella, 60, finished in 29:38. Caitlin Kelley, 15, finished in 30:54, as did Michelle Maciel, 11. Suzanne DiPalma, 34, finished in 31:14, and Margaret tashjian, 46, finished in 32:03.

Besides the F.A.R.M. race, numerous Tewksbury and Wilmington residents braved through the damp weather to participate in several road races.

The Lowell Firefighters 5K was the most popular event of the week. Seven Tewksbury residents and one Wilmington resident competed.

From Tewksbury, Billy McCarthy placed 58th in 24:17, Jean Della Piana, placed 99th in 26:25, Debbie Evangelista placed 122nd in 27:32, Marcia Vitale placed 150th in 29:44, Sandra Flemming placed 206th in 33:50, Kelly Khachadourian placed 220th in 34:42, and Paula Cullen rounded out the Tewksbury runners at 225th place in 36:18.

The lone Wilmington runner, John Skinner, completed the course in 24:20 which placed him 61st.

Three Wilmington residents ran at Blue's Run in Cambridge. Steve Doherty completed the 4.2 mile run in 34:15 which placed 402nd in the 1,049 person field. Behind Doherty was Jessica Burns in 34:50 which was good for 421st place. Rounding out the Wilmington runners was Ron Coutu who ran 35:58 which placed 497th.

Ken Warren and Lori Fitzgerald, also of Wilmington, competed in the 10K at the Evan's Run in Norwell. Warren ran for 38:28.3 which put him 24th in the field. Fitzgerald placed behind Warren in 27th with a time of 58:50.1.

The 'Dwelling Place' serves many

A seat at the table for those in need

By PAUL FEELY

The numbers regarding use of food pantries and soup kitchens by Massachusetts residents in recent years is staggering, and one important local soup kitchen is running out of funds so rapidly it may not have enough to operate a year from now.

A "Map the Meal Gap" study released recently by Feeding America, the national consortium of food banks, showed two alarming trends.

The study pointed out that it will take 88.7 million more meals to provide three square meals a day to everyone in need in Massachusetts. Data also showed that nearly half of those who go hungry earn too much money to qualify for governmental nutrition assistance under current standards, and are forced to rely on charity.

Nearly half of Massachusetts residents who responded to the study said they lacked enough food to meet basic family needs fully, because they have income 200 percent above the federal poverty line for a family of four.

In 2009, nearly one out of every 10 state residents relied on a food pantry, soup kitchen, or shelter, up 23 percent over four years before, according to another survey conducted in 2010 by Feeding America, a network of 200 food banks around the country.

In the Middlesex East readership area, many families in need are served by The Dwelling Place, a community soup kitchen located at the United Methodist Church on Main Street in Woburn center. It offers hot dinners on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays, year round, to all who come - some for the free food, some for the fellowship, and some for both. All are welcome, and no questions are asked about financial circumstances. It is the only soup kitchen serving Woburn, Winchester, Burlington, and Wilmington.

According to Reverend Leslie Hastings, Assistant Pastor of the Wilmington United Methodist Church in Wilmington, The Dwelling Place got its start 23 years ago.

"The seeds were planted in 1987 at an ecumenical Lenten meeting at St. Charles Borromeo Church in Woburn center," said Rev. Hastings. "The pastor had invited a group to view a film on world hunger, and it spawned a discussion about what could be done locally to help people in need. Meetings were held over the summer to determine what would work best, and the group settled on a soup kitchen. The planners accepted the offer of the United Methodist Church of Woburn to house the program."

"Initially, at least, clergy and laity from all four Catholic parishes, the mainline Protestant churches, and the Greek Orthodox Church took part," continued Hastings. "The unexpected benefit was a great sense of mutual acceptance and cooperation within the town's churches. Nikki Kouletsis from the Greek Orthodox Church stepped in very early to plan menus and coordinate volunteers. Her daughter, Dene, still represents that church and is currently the chairperson of The Dwelling Place Board of Directors."

A set schedule for distribution of meals to needy individuals was quickly established.

"Meals were scheduled at first for two nights a week," said Hastings. "On the very first night no one showed up to eat. Rev. Bill Flug, the pastor of the United Methodist Church, and I walked through the downtown area and invited folks from the streets and alleys. Over the next few months, word quickly spread and we were regularly serving up to 15 people each time. At times over the years, that number has swelled to nearly 60 people."

A year after its inception, the Dwelling Place began to serve three nights a week, and has continued to do so to this day, totalling well over 70,000 meals prepared and, Hastings estimates, another 20-30,000 taken home.

"One of the other important people from early on was John Stannard of the United Methodist Church," said Hastings. "He was there from the very early days, and eventually supervised all three nights a week for many years, right up until the day of his death in late 2010."

Hastings was involved from the very beginning.

"I was part of the planning group and very active until 2005, when I became assistant pastor of the Wilmington United Methodist Church. Since John's death, I have become the supervisor on two Monday nights a month."

Hastings said that on most nights, less than 10 volunteers manage to help so many families throughout the Middlesex East readership area.

"On a typical evening, 4-7 people work setting the tables, cooking the food, serving, and cleaning up," said Hastings. "Each volunteer group does one night a month."

Groups currently involved in volunteering at The Dwelling Place include First Congregational Church and Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church (Winchester), Hope Christian Church and Burlington Presbyterian Church (Burlington), Wilmington United Methodist Church (Wilmington), North Congregational Church, the Greek Orthodox Church, St. Charles Church, the United Methodist Church (Woburn), the Social Capital Youth Initiative (Woburn), one business group, a Hindu group, occasional scout groups, and one family.

"Individuals are welcome to participate, too, and are sometimes paired with the smaller churches," said Hastings.

Hastings said she has seen the demand for help from places

Movie Reviews

"PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: ON STRANGER TIDES"

"PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: ON STRANGER TIDES" again stars Johnny Depp in his iconic role of Captain Jack Sparrow. In this installment he is seeking to find the fabled Fountain of Youth. En route he travels with the enigmatic Angelica (Penelope Cruz) and even Blackbeard! The question is why a 'Pirates 4'?

"PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: ON STRANGER TIDES"

Jack is back, Johnny Depp returns to his iconic role of Captain Jack Sparrow in this all new adventure - but the question is why?

Aside from the dollar signs that Disney execs must have been seeing at the box office, Sparrow's story seemed to have wrapped up nicely at the end of 'Pirates' 3.

But now we are given a fourth tael (which sets up another three movies), where Sparrow crosses paths with the enigmatic Angelica (Penelope Cruz). He's not sure if it's love, or if she's a ruthless con artist who's using him to find the fabled Fountain of Youth. When she forces him aboard the "Queen Anne's Revenge," the ship of the legendary pirate Blackbeard (Ian McShane), Jack finds himself on an unexpected adventure in which he doesn't know whom to fear more: Blackbeard or Angelica, with whom he shares a mysterious past.

Barbarossa (Geoffrey Rush) is also seeking the fountain, and is bent on avenging a wrong done him by Blackbeard.

Because of this, "Stranger Tides" has narrative momentum, and moves quicker than the past couple of Jack Sparrow movies.

You need a map to follow along with the plot, which gets confusing at times. Part of the movie is set in London and part of it is in Spain, but the Fountain of Youth stuff takes everyone somewhere that looks a lot like a left-over set piece from TV's "Lost," and could be Hawaii.

Even with these complaints, the film is worth seeing. Depp's Jack Sparrow is still a great comic creation. He appears to be having fun playing the character, and as long as he doesn't become bored with the tales, the films will work.

They may be looking for the Fountain of Youth, but Depp have already found it in this iconic character, who prints money for Disney bosses as well as he sails the seven seas.

"BRIDESMAIDS"

Kristen Wiig looks like the first female star from 'Saturday Night-Live' to hit it big since Tina Fey, if her starring role in this comedy is any indication.

Producer Judd Apatow (Knocked Up, The 40-Year-Old Virgin) has made a vehicle intended for a largely female audience in 'Bridesmaids', with Wiig starring as Annie, a maid of honor whose life unravels as she leads her best friend, Lillian (Maya Rudolph), and a group of colorful bridesmaids (Rose Byrne, Melissa McCarthy, Wendi McLendon-Covey and Ellie Kemper) on a wild ride down the road to matrimony.

Annie's life is a mess. But when she finds out her lifetime best friend is engaged, she simply must serve as Lillian's maid of honor. Though lovelorn and broke, Annie bluffs her way through the expensive and bizarre rituals. With one chance to get it perfect, she'll show Lillian and her bridesmaids just how far you'll go for someone you love.

Apatow's name alone sells movie tickets these days, as it has become synonymous with raunchy-sweet R-rated comedies. Their heroes are vulgar, with a human side - but always men.

The argument could be made that 'Bridesmaids' is meant for the male market as well, with much of its humor based on crude and sexually suggestive jokes, but the stars are all women, and the point of view the story is told from is certainly female. It's outrageous, very funny and smart about the way people seek out affection. It is an emotionally intelligent movie, while at the same time is a lowbrow comedy that attempts to win your heart.

Wiig cowrote the script, and she is simply terrific at communicating the anxieties that come with her friend Lillian marrying up a social class, while she herself is stuck without a relationship or fiscal security.

Wiig is the star of the film, but the flick features a fine supporting cast, including powerhouse Melissa McCarthy, improv specialist Wendi McLendon-Covey from Reno 911, and Elle Kemper, playing the same wide-eyed lass that she does on The Office.

Bridesmaids is a chick flick for chick-flick haters and proves that girls can be as raunchy, and funny, as guys.

"THOR"

GRADE: ***
This latest installment of Marvel comic heroes to hit the screen is a movie that offers everything you could want in a summer action movie.

The epic adventure 'Thor' spans the Marvel Universe from present day Earth to the mystical realm of Asgard. At the center of the story is the mighty Thor, a powerful but arrogant warrior whose reckless actions reignite an ancient war.

As a result, Thor is banished to Earth where he is forced to live among humans. When the most dangerous villain of his world sends its darkest forces to invade Earth, Thor learns what it takes to be a true hero.

The movie version of the comic book character, doesn't engage in the soul-searching that often goes along with heroes in today's super hero movies. It doesn't feel like a comedy, but director Kenneth Branagh gives it a comedic smirk that starts with Thor himself, played by charismatic Chris Hemsworth as a man who thinks its funny how easily he can get rid of evil doers, and has fun doing it.

Thor's main foe is his brother, Loki (Tom Hiddleston), who feels inferior to Thor in the eyes of their father (dad is Anthony Hopkins' as Odin). Their battle brings them to Earth, where they catch the eye of the government, led by Clark Gregg's witty fed. Thor is also studied by three scientists (Natalie Portman, Stellan Skarsgard, Kat Dennings) who befriend the man with the muscles after he arrives on earth.

The actors don't have a lot of time on the big screen, but they make the most of it. Portman is good with the lines she is given to deliver (however uninspiring some may be), Dennings is amusing as the film's jokester and Skarsgard's seriousness plays well between the two women.

"FAST FIVE"

GRADE: ***
You might think this series would have run out of gas by now, but instead it's picking up speed again.

Vin Diesel and Paul Walker lead a reunion of returning all-stars from every chapter of the explosive franchise built on speed in Fast Five.

In this installment, former cop Brian O'Conner (Paul Walker) partners with ex-con Dom Toretto (Vin Diesel) on the opposite side of the law. Dwayne Johnson joins returning favorites Jordana Brewster, Tyrese Gibson, Chris "Ludacris" Bridges, Matt Schulze, Sung Kang, Gal Gadot, Tego Calderon and Don Omar for this ultimate high-stakes race.

Since Brian and Mia Toretto (Brewster) broke Dom out of custody, they've blown across many borders to elude authorities. Now backed into a corner in Rio de Janeiro, they must pull one last job in order to gain their freedom.

As they assemble their elite team of top racers, the unlikely allies know their only shot of getting out for good means confronting the corrupt businessman who wants them dead. But he's not the only one on their tail.

It's a stroke of inspiration to have Dwayne Johnson as the head of the elite task force. This is seriously fast and furious action that doesn't rely on CGI to get you to enjoy the thrills.

At Calvary Cemetery Project to identify and mark veterans' graves

John Brannagan
Age 21
Born in Ireland
Wounded at Laurel Hill,

Taken prisoner at
Weldon Railroad, VA

Died at Salisbury
Prison 1865

One day last year, Kathy Lucero and John McElhiney were walking through Calvary Cemetery's "S" section, next to the Jewish Cemetery fence. They were there to identify points of interest that could be used for the next Woburn Historical Society Trolley Tour. Many of the names were familiar to them, such as WWI veterans Lawrence LaCasse, Dr. Thomas Caulfield and Peter Fleming. But, what made them remarkable to Kathy Lucero was what she didn't see; many of the veteran's graves, some dating to the Civil War, were missing the bronze flag holders indicating the War in which the soldiers served.

After many hours of research at the Woburn Public Library, Kathy discovered another piece of Woburn's forgotten history. A police report in the Times dated October 11, 1940 stated that "marauders" had stolen the metal markers, probably in order to melt them down for sale. The incident was corroborated when Kathy found the original Woburn Police report dated the day before.

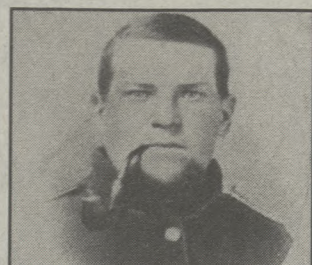

That's when the real work began. Kathy combed through newspaper archives and military records before walking the entire cemetery multiple times with Bill Sweeney, a Historical Society member, to identify additional veterans. Thanks to a tip from another Society member and Civil War Historian, Leon Basile, Kathy found that the library has more than 700 cards on microfilm devoted to Woburn's Civil War soldiers. She discovered that 74 are buried at Calvary and she is in the process of finding their graves and marking them temporarily with placeholders. The Archdiocese of Boston, who manages the cemetery, identified another thirteen World War I veterans.

Larry Guiseppe, Woburn Veteran's agent has worked with Kathy to order the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) and World War I flag holders for the graves that have been identified so far. For the first time in over 70 years, their final resting places will be marked by an American Flag in time for Memorial Day, in tribute and thanks for their service and for the honor they brought to Woburn.

Coincidentally, this year marks the 150th anniversary of the start of the Civil War. Their graves have been particularly difficult to identify due to the ravages of time and weather on their gravestones.

It is fitting that their serv-

CENTRAL BOOKING (STONEHAM)

"Local officials ... chose the Central School as the preferred location to house a new middle school," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"During a School Building Committee meeting ..., the board voted in favor of utilizing the elementary school property for the facility, which still has not been designed.

"The Building Committee in recent months had also explored the feasibility of constructing a new school adjacent to the high school, but concerns over the traffic impacts ultimately led to that option being rejected.

"The Building Committee had a meeting and they did vote for the [Central School] site," Selectmen Chair Paul Rotondi informed his colleagues on the board "The next plan is for the superintendent to put together an educational plan."

"Late last month, the Building Committee considered the plausibility of building an addition at the Central School, which combined with the existing facility, would serve students in grades 5 through 8.

"Proponents of that option argued that it would cost an estimated $7 million less than a middle school off of Franklin Street, while also filling out excess capacity at the remaining elementary schools by housing pupils in the first through fourth grades there"

AS SEEN FROM 128 (WOBURN)

"City Council members made it clear ... they want a lot more information before they vote on U-Haul's proposal to occupy the former Charrette building on Olympia Avenue," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Specifically, the council requested a traffic report, the number and types of vehicles that will be at the site and details about what U-Haul's operations, beyond the general overview that has been presented thus far.

"I don't have an understanding or flavor ... about your operation," said Ward 5 Alderman Darlene Mercer-Bruen, whose district includes Olympia Avenue, the road that runs between Washington Street and Mishawum Road.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

BACK TO THE DRAWING BOARDS WITH EFFICIENT ENERGY

"You need to have a full presentation," she added. "On the surface, it sounds wonderful. It's great we're going to get a re-use of the building, but I have many, many questions."

"The council eventually continued the public hearing ..., and forwarded the petition to its Special Permits Committee for further review"

THE HOME STRETCH (TEWKSBURY)

"Article 31 sought to accept the Stretch Energy Code," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"The Stretch Energy Code is one of the five criteria that are required in order for a town to apply for Green Community Designation. Such a designation could lead to grants and other funding for projects. Historic homes are exempt from such regulation. The Stretch Energy Code seeks to regulate the design and construction of buildings for more efficient energy conservation.

"The Stretch Energy Code had been defeated previously at a Special Town Meeting held on October 5, 2010. That evening, the initial standing vote determined that the Code had been defeated by a single vote, which led to a second standing vote. The result of the second standing vote came in at 44 in favor and 47 opposed, and the measure was defeated.

"On its second appearance on a Town Meeting warrant, however, things turned out differently.

"Selectwoman Anne Marie Stronach, who is also the Chairwoman of the Green Committee, spoke in favor of the article.

"One resident said that he believed adopting the Stretch Energy Code would have a negative impact on development and business in Tewksbury.

"James Duffy, also a member of the Green Committee, spoke in favor of the Code, saying that it 'just insures that we, the end-user, get the most energy efficient building possible.'

"The article was adopted by a voice vote.

"Article 32, which intended to amend Tewksbury Town By-Laws concerning the demolition of historic buildings, was adopted. Chairman of the Historic Commission, James J. Gaffney III, spoke in favor of the article, saying that the current by-law did not provide enough time to carry out all the necessary work needed to develop alternatives to demolition. The delay period was extended from 90 days to 270 days. The demolition can proceed before such a period, if the Historic Commission does not object.

"The final article, Article 33, pertained to accepting open space from the Ames Run cluster subdivision. Once land is accepted by the town, as open space, there are no taxes levied upon the land, the town owns the land and no development will take place on it. The motion was carried.

"All articles from the warrant having been addressed, Tewksbury's 2011 Annual Town Meeting was concluded."

I have to say I have never felt better! I only wish I had signed up sooner ...

BEFORE

I joined GISFW almost a year ago and it was the HEALTHIEST thing I have ever done for myself. I am a much disciplined person and I have always tried to take care of myself and eat properly. Exercise was not something I was very knowledgeable about. Walking distances over the last few years was my exercise. It made me feel good but not like I feel since I have been exercising at GISFW. Having the knowledge and the expertise of the trainers to guide you through the program has made all the difference! I look forward to each and every session I attend and the challenges the trainers motivate me to accomplish. I have to say I have never felt better! I only wish I had signed up sooner... Don't wait any longer.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Which Super Bowl game featured an NFL team, playing in its own home stadium? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•BRITTNEY MURPHY, A 2008 WOBURN HIGH GRADUATE was named to the Commonwealth Coast Conference Women's Lacrosse All-Conference team.

Brittney had one of the best offensive season's in Colby-Sawyer history. She set the single season record for points, goals and assists while climbing the ranks of the all-time leading scorers at CSC. She finished the season with 72 goals and 28 assists for a total of 100 points in a single season. She also led the team with draw controls and ranked second in ground balls. Among all conference players, Murphy ranks 2nd in goals for the season.

•SOPHOMORE EVAN WHITE (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) gave arguably the greatest single-day performance in UMass Lowell history as he captured three events and led the River Hawks to fourth place at the New England Amateur Athletic Association (NEICAAA) Championship at Southern Connecticut State's Jess Dow Field.

UMass Lowell compiled 77 points - including 30 by White - to place fourth while Southern Connecticut won the title with 110 points. Northeastern compiled 86.50 points while the University of Rhode Island placed third with 82 points.

Bates College (44) edged out Stonehill (43) while Boston College (40.5), Vermont (38), New Hampshire (34) and Springfield (24) made up the top 10. The top eight athletes in each event earned All-New England honors.

On Friday, junior Angus MacDonald (Methuen, Mass.) captured the 5,000 meters (14:45.37) while sophomore Jeff Veiga (Lowell, Mass.) captured the 10,000 meters in (31:05.76). MacDonald also took third in the 1,500 meters Saturday in 3:49.99 and, along with White and Veiga, accounted for 56 of UMass Lowell's 77 points.

White not only captured three events but also set a school record in the 200 meter dash and improved his and UMass Lowell's standing in the NCAA Championship in the 4X400 meter relay and the 400 meter dash.

White captured the 200 meters in 21.19 seconds - edging his previous school record of 21.21 set on Apr. 23 - and improved to 22nd on the latest NCAA Division II list. He moved on to capture the 400 meter dash in a personal-best 46.55 seconds (down from 46.71 at last week's Northeast-10 Conference Championship) as he remains second on the Division II list.

Sophomore Craig Bennett (Milton, Mass.) placed third in the 400 meters in 47.66 seconds to earn All-New England honors for the second straight year.

White capped a busy day by running a 46.4-second anchor leg on UMass Lowell's 4X400 meter relay team, which posted a sterling 3:10.69 to move from 10th to ninth in the country.

Joining White in the 4X400 was Bennett, who led off with a 47.6-second split. He was followed by senior Donte Brown (Raynham, Mass.) who ran a 47.4 leg and freshman Keith Lewis (Nashua, N.H.), who ran a 48.2 split.

Brown also earned All-New England status in the 400 meter hurdles as he finished runner-up in 52.87 seconds, just behind Jonathan Hall of Northeastern who won in 51.77.

Seniors Cory Murray (Methuen, Mass.) and William Nguidjoi (Lawrence, Mass.) each captured All-New England honors to fuel UMass Lowell's effort. Murray earned the honor for the fourth straight year as he took fifth in the shot put with a throw of 53 feet, 5.75 inches.

Nguidjoi placed fifth in the triple jump and earned All-New England status for the second straight year with a throw of 46' 11.75".

Other results included that of UMass Lowell's 4X800 meter relay team which placed ninth in 7:54.74, one place shy of All-New England honors. Freshman Scott Boiko (Chelmsford, Mass.) led off with a 1:54.6 split while freshman David Brown (Chelmsford, Mass.) followed in 2:01.0; junior Danny Wang (Haverhill, Mass.) in 1:58.0 and freshman Clint Burns (Whitman, Mass.) in 2:00.0.

•After suffering a heart-breaking loss in game one, the Merrimack softball team bounced back to defeat Southern Connecticut 2-1 in the NCAA Tournament East Region 1 final at Dowling College. The Warriors improved to 31-21 on the season.

Tawny Palmieri (Peabody, Mass.) had an offensive outburst in the final series, going 5-for-7 from the dish with four runs batted in while also scoring three times. Kelli Jo Deardorff (Bedford, Mass.) tossed 13 innings on the day with five strikeouts.

In game one, Southern Connecticut struck first with a run in the bottom of the first inning. Jessica Rosa knocked in Jillian Thibault from third with an RBI single to left field.

The Owls added a run in the third frame as Alyssa Downs plated Brittany Bucko with a single to centerfield to take a 2-0 lead.

Merrimack cut the deficit in half in the top of the fifth. Deardorff and AMANDA ZANNI (READING, MASS.)

drew back-to-back one-out walks. Jessica Fugazzotto (Newton, Mass.) beat out an infield single to load the bases for the Warriors. Kristen LeMay (Shrewsbury, Mass.) drove in Deardorff from third for Merrimack's first run of the game.

Palmieri led off the sixth with a single and Monique Gosselin (Lawrence, Mass.) followed with a base hit to right field and advanced on the throw as Palmieri moved up to third. Jaclyn Giovannini (Plano, Texas) sent one-out groundball to the right side of the infield sending Palmieri sprinting home to tie the game at 2-2.

A two-out single in the sixth inning by Zanni scored Nicole LoPilato from third to give the Warriors a 3-2 advantage.

Encore Dance celebrates another successful year

The Dance Company from Encore Dance Academy in Reading has had another successful competition year.

The studio is the proud home of one of the most accomplished teams in the area. Over the last three months the Company as a whole has attended three regional competitions and some soloists have attended an additional three. In total the Company has won over $3,000.00 in cash prizes for their multiple top scoring routines, titles and choreography awards.

The Company prides itself on the relationships that the students have with one another and with their teachers.

"We are more like a family," studio director Erica Jamieson stated. "The students and their parents are so supportive of one another and what we teach here at Encore. These girls understand what true teamwork is all about. This notion guided them to achieve all that they have this year. I am so proud of them all."

The Encore Dance Company is holding auditions for their 2011-2012 teams on Monday

June 6th at 5:00pm. Please visit www.encoredanceacademy.net for more details and for more information on the Company including photos and video.

The Recreational program is also flourishing at Encore Dance Academy. In the last three years student growth has more than tripled! The studio aims to provide all students with a well-rounded dance education.

The faculty of fully qualified teachers are dedicated to helping all students reach their full potential. The studio offers innovative programs that will improve training and technique while also building self-esteem and confidence. Encore Dance Academy is committed to providing all of their students with the very best to suit their dance education needs. Visit the studio at 335 Main Street or visit the website at www.encoredanceacademy.net

Recreational class registration begins in June and extends through August; Tuesdays from 4:00-6:00pm and Wednesdays from 10:00am-12:00pm.

like The Dwelling Place increase since the recession hit.

"We are currently averaging about 20-25 guests per evening," said Hastings. "We have often tried to analyze the patterns, but we can't even say with certainty that more come at the end of the month, as one would expect."

"Most of those currently coming are individuals rather than families, but this has varied over the years, too. Some come for the free food, some come for the fellowship, and some come for both. While some are homeless, most have places to live, however inadequate, and some have cars. Many struggle with multiple issues of disability, emotional or mental health, past substance abuse, poor education, and so forth."

"They come from many different communities, but we do not keep records on that."

Hastings has met many people from many walks of life over her years at The Dwelling Place, but a few stand out in her mind.

"One memory I have from the early years is a dad telling me that the milk I was pouring for his children was the first they had that week," said Hastings. "It's sad to think that parents have to worry about milk for their kids in this country."

"Another is of two young, single moms becoming friends at The Dwelling Place, and sharing babysitting back and forth, to give each other a break."

While food donations are always accepted, Hastings said what The Dwelling Place desperately needs now is money.

"Monetary donations are what are critical at this point in our history," said Hastings. "The Dwelling Place pays a monthly amount to the host church, to compensate for heat, light, cooking gas, cleaning, and general maintenance. In addition, we must purchase paper goods, coffee, and various other items. We currently have enough in our account to last about a year. Some churches that are too small to volunteer to serve one night a month do contribute some each year. Fundraising needs to be ongoing. The groups that serve provide all of the food."

For anyone wishing to help out The Dwelling Place, donations may be made to:

How to manage medications at home

Turn on the television and you're likely to be inundated with commercials for the latest prescription medications that should be discussed with a doctor. According to "Generation Rx: How Prescription Drugs Are Altering American Lives, Minds, and Bodies," by Greg Crister, the average number of prescriptions drugs taken per person, annually, in 2004 was 12. It is estimated that people will spend over $400 billion on prescription drugs by the end of 2011. Individuals who take multiple medications may find it difficult to manage them all.

The challenge of managing medications can be difficult for anyone but particularly for seniors. Some organizational strategies and a little help from others may be the keys to getting meds straight.

First and foremost, it's important that doctors and pharmacists know of all the medications that are being taken. It's a good idea to use one pharmacy to fill prescriptions. This way it will have a record of medication use and can alert to drug interactions that may be dangerous, which could otherwise go undetected. And remember, over-the-counter supplements, vitamins and medicines count, too. They should be mentioned at the doctor's office or, at the very least, when getting a new prescription filled at the pharmacy. Herbal remedies and other items - even foods - can interact with certain drugs. For example, it's best to avoid grapefruit juice while taking many of the cholesterol-lowering statins available.

Purchasing a medication

organizer can be the next step to getting drugs in check. There are a number of different styles and sizes available. Seniors may want to enlist the help of a family member to sort through pills at the beginning of each week and place the right pills in each compartment.

Knowing which days to take each medication is sometimes not enough. Certain medications must be taken at different intervals each day, often inviting confusion. A chart listing the times of each medication posted next to where the prescriptions are kept can help. A watch with a timer or an alarm clock can be programmed to chime as a reminder. Tech-savvy people can program smart phones or PDAs with reminders to alert when it's time to take a pill. There are even advanced pill dispensing systems that can be programmed to dispense medication according to a set schedule. The Maya from MedMinder.com is one to consider or the Philips Medication Dispensing Service at ManageMyPills.com.

People who are worried about an elderly relative can enlist the help of medication reminder services that can call or message a person to keep track of pills. They also may provide reminders about doctors' appointments.

There are a number of options available to help make organizing care a little easier. Safety should be the top priority when there are many different medications that need to be taken.

Did you know?

According to a 2010 study conducted by researchers at the Sleep and Neuroimaging Laboratory at the University of California, Berkeley, a midday nap might just make you smarter.

The study was conducted with the help of 39 college students, each of whom was asked to learn a series of new names and faces at noon and match the faces a few minutes later.

The same test was then performed at 6 p.m. that same day. A group of the participants who took a nap at 2 p.m. performed better than those students who did not nap. The latter group, in fact, had a significant decline in memory test scores. Researchers credit the nap with refreshing the brain, and they credit the study with showing that the brain's ability to absorb new information declines over the course of a typical day.

When a person naps, that decline seems to be reversed. However, researchers noted that college students, who generally do not get adequate sleep, might not make the best subject matter thanks to typically poor sleeping habits.

Men and women who do get adequate sleep might not experience any improved memory if they take a nap during the day.

Perennials are a gardener's friend

Gardening is often seen as an art form to men and women with a green thumb. Once the landscape is designed, homeowners may not want to change much from year to year. That is where perennial plants can be an advantage.

Designing a landscape and keeping the garden looking beautiful can take a keen eye. It also may require a lot of time and commitment. If home gardeners have to replant items year after year, gardening can become time-consuming and expensive. Turning to perennial plants and flowers to serve as the anchor for a home garden can make the process easier.

Perennials are plants that live indefinitely. In terms of flowering plants, perennials will bloom every year. In essence, they have the staying power of shrubbery but are more delicate in nature and often appealing to the eye.

There are perennials for every season, soil type and sun exposure. Perennials come in a wide variety of blooming flowers or attractive foliage. Chances are if a homeowner wants to add perennials to the garden, there is a variety available that will fit his or her needs.

Here are some perennials that can be added to the garden:

- * lavender
- * ornamental grasses
- * asters
- * chrysanthemums
- * irises
- * poppies
- * milkweed
- * goldentuft

- * anemones
- * columbines
- * daylilies
- * peonies
- * hostas

Once perennials are in place, there is relatively minimal maintenance that is required. The tune-ups that may be needed are some deadheading to promote new and stronger growth and some cleaning up after winter before the new blooming season takes place.

Once the early spring season arrives and the ground is not too muddy or rain-soaked, clear out any leaves and debris that have gathered around where perennials are located. Gardeners can also till the mulch or soil in these areas to aerate the planting beds.

Using shears, cut down any dead grasses, stems and stalks from spent perennials that overwintered. Remove any dead wood and broken branches. Be careful not to trim spring-blooming shrubs because some flowers bloom on year-old stems and this can cause the plant not to flower.

Perennials that aren't flowering as well as they used to or have dead centers may need to be divided to promote stronger growth. This should be done in early spring before the plant blooms or late fall before the winter arrives. Dividing plants and replanting not only grows the garden, but also it is a healthy revitalization for the plant.

Gardeners who prefer to take a laid-back approach to gardening may appreciate the ease with which a beautiful and easy-to-maintain landscape can be created with perennials.

How to enjoy eating healthy. Oatmeal Raisin Muffin recipe

A healthy diet is often mistaken for one that is devoid of desirable foods. But just because a diet is healthy doesn't mean it can't be delicious as well. A few easy modifications to your favorite recipes can make a diet healthier without sacrificing taste.

Many nutritionists say that the average person should consume between 1,600 to 2,000 calories and 45 to 80 grams of fat per day. There are many different diet plans available that curb carbs, beef up protein and greatly reduce fat intake. However, it is universally agreed that moderate caloric reduction and an increase in activity are the best bets for healthy, long-term weight maintenance.

Ideas to curb caloric intake include using cooking sprays instead of heavy oils to grease pans; replacing butter and salt with herbs and spices to add flavor; or trading regular white breads and pastas for whole wheat varieties. Scaling back portion sizes of meats and increasing portion sizes of vegetables to feel full is another healthy approach.

For those who love a muffin in the morning but want a healthy option, try this Oatmeal Raisin Muffin recipe.

Oatmeal Raisin Muffins

- 1 cup oats
- 1 cup skim milk
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup wheat flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 dash salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 egg whites
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup applesauce
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2/3 cup raisins

Preheat oven to 375 F and spray muffin tins to grease. Soak oats in the milk for several minutes. Sift together the flour and dry ingredients. Mix together the egg, sugar, applesauce and vanilla.

Blend the wet ingredients and the oats. Fold in the dry ingredients, then the raisins.

Spoon batter into muffin tins. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

Did you know?

According to the Prostate Cancer Foundation, the prostate is not essential for life. Instead, the role of the prostate seems to be to supply substances that facilitate fertilization. Enzymes like PSA, or prostate-specific antigen, are used to loosen up semen to help the sperm reach the egg during intercourse. In addition, other substances made by the prostate give sperm the energy to make its journey to fertilize the egg. If a man undergoes a prostatectomy and his prostate is removed, he can go on to live a healthy life but he will be rendered infertile.

partial yet visually open boundary between the dining room and a large kitchen generously supplied with counter space. The counters that wrap around four sides are punctuated by built-in appliances and a roomy walk-in pantry.

Another gas fireplace is in the vaulted owners' suite, where flame watching can serve as a pleasant, completely natural sleep aid. One set of pocket doors in the private bathroom opens into a walk-in closet, while the other set can close off the toilet and step-in shower for privacy and steam containment.

The large utility room is equally convenient to both the bedroom wing and the kitchen. Stairs in the hallway lead to an upstairs recreation room complete with a wet bar and small bathroom.

Two rooms are at the front of the Allenspark. The bayed room on the left could be used as a den, parlor, or home office. The other room, down a short hallway to the right, could be a study, bedroom, or whatever suits its owners more than 2 percent from March to $217,900. New-home prices are more than 30 percent higher the median price of re-sales — twice the normal markup.

Sales

The latest sales numbers come in the midst of a weak spring home-buying season. Analysts had been forecasting an uptick in sales for the past several months. It hasn't happened. April's new-home sales are 23 percent lower than in the same month last year.

Many would-be buyers of new homes are instead favoring older, discounted re-sale homes, said Paul Bell, a Realtor with the Prudential Americana Group in Las Vegas.

"That's where the deals are," Bell said.

Shares of homebuilder companies rallied briefly after the report on new-home sales suggested that builders might step up construction. But stocks quickly fell on concerns over Europe's lingering debt crisis.

The housing sector remains the weakest part of the U.S. economy, noted Ian Shepherdson, chief U.S. economist at High Frequency Economics. Sales of new homes have declined 18 percent in the nearly two years since the recession ended.

Last year, Americans bought the fewest number of new homes on records going back 47 years. High unemployment, tight credit and a lingering fear that prices will fall further have discouraged many would-be buyers.

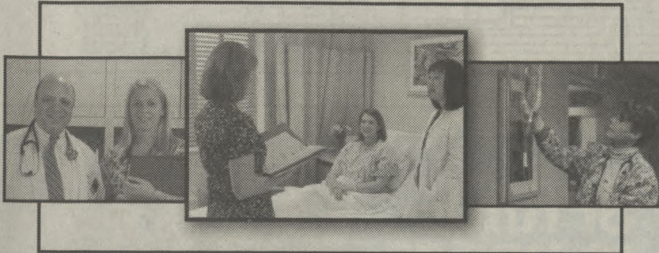

A further obstacle is gas prices. Elizabeth Duke, a Federal Reserve governor, said Tuesday that the jump in gas prices since February has contributed to a slowdown in big purchases by consumers.

At the same time, Brad Hunter, chief economist with Metrostudy, noted that the number of foreclosures has slowed in some areas because of backlogged state courts. A result is that builders in desirable locales are "raising prices, indicating some recovery in those submarkets."

Allenspark
makes a versatile family
home

Painted wooden shutters, clean-lined posts, and multi-paned windows give the Allenspark the comforting allure of a country cottage. Inside, its floor plan is well designed to suit the needs of a contemporary family.

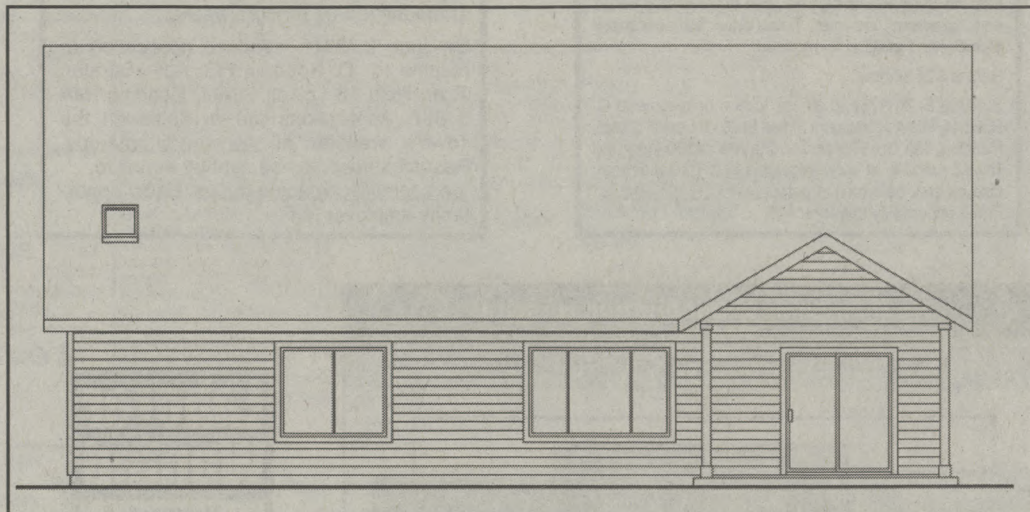

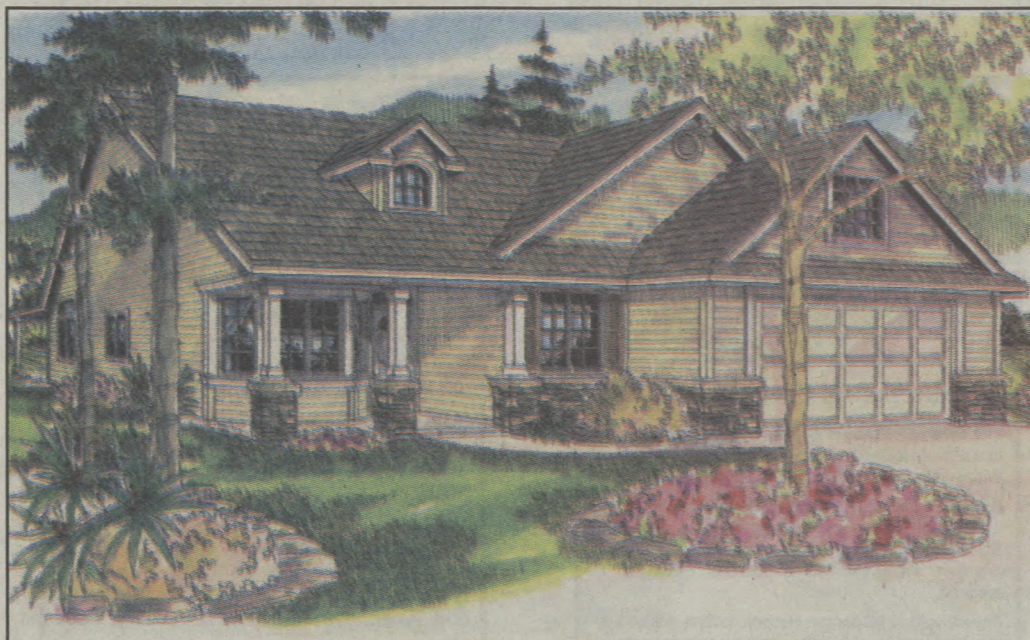

Gathering spaces flow together at the rear, where natural light washes into the vaulted great room and dining area through wide windows and a set of sliding glass doors. Those doors offer easy access to a covered patio, its roof supported by slender posts similar to the trio of posts in front. The gas fireplace, tucked into an interior corner across the room from the windows, creates a cheerful focal point on dreary days and long dark nights.

sluggish

WASHINGTON (AP) — More people bought new homes for a second straight month in April, a hopeful sign. Still, sales remain far below a pace that would signal a turnaround for the depressed housing market.

New-home sales rose 7.3 percent last month to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 323,000, the Commerce Department said Tuesday. A healthy real estate market would produce a pace of about 700,000 new-home sales a month.

People have little incentive to buy new homes, in part because they're comparatively expensive. The median price of a new home rose
